ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Home Work

Q. A Nigerian student, stranded in the United States because his family cannot send money out of Nigeria, desperately needs a place to live and a way to earn a little money. This is a chance to improve our country's image in Africa and to have the experience of knowing a fine person. Can you help? D.H., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE with the help of a community agency was able to find the young man a place to stay for a week. But he still needs a more permanent home.

Just Don't Do It

Q. I'm trying to find a copy of an article which I think is called "The First 10 Seconds of a Head-on Collision." It's supposed to describe in great detail a fatal traffic accident. Can you tell me where to find a copy of the article? V.R.C., Bellflower.

A. Thanks to an assist from the Long Beach Safety Council and the Long Beach Police Department, ACTION LINE is sending you a copy of "The First Seven-Tenths of a Second" which is a kind of slow-motion description of a car smashing into a tree at 55 miles per hour. "The grim detail is pretty dramatic," says Officer Bill Meyer of the police department. Meyer's copy of the article was taken from the monthly bulletin of the California Department of Motor Vehicles.

Hola Out There in Radioland

Q. Is there a shortwave station in Los Angeles which broadcasts in Spanish? Mrs. E.F., Long Beach.

A. No. But there are many national and international stations which can be picked up. The lower shortwave bands come in better after dark from 5 to 7.5 megacycles. During the day, frequencies are better from 15 to 20 megacycles. Radio Havana broadcasts after dark and is one of the strongest stations on the 5 to 7-meter band. The Voice of America broadcasts over 7,280 megacycles. For more information call Amateur Radio Operator's Public Information Center, at 750-4425 in Los Angeles. Frederick R. Washburn, the operator of the center, also sends free radio messages all over the world. He suggests you obtain the Electronic Journal, a monthly magazine, which publishes Whites's Radio Log, listing shortwave broadcasts in all languages and frequencies. This can be purchased at most newsstands.

More Do-Si-Dough

Q. I'm a devotee of square dancing, and I've heard that the City of Los Angeles has raised the rent on its recreation buildings as much as 300 per cent. Is this true? What kind of square dancing program does the recreation department support? R.M.N., Compton.

A. The rental fee has been changed from a flat rate to a graduated rate depending on the size of the facility to be rented, says a spokesman for the Los Angeles City Recreation Department. "We used to charge $3 an hour for all our buildings," the spokesman says. "But last May, the Recreation Commission finalized a new fee scale which charges up to $30 for a large dance or lecture hall." The rental fees are charged to all groups who are not part of regular department programs. The spokesman says each of the department's 134 recreation and senior citizen centers plans its own programs. "Basically, the programs are based on popular demand," he says. "If the participants enrolled in the program at a certain center wanted to start a square dance activity, the director would go along."

Good Joe

Q. While vacationing in New York I discovered a wonderful new instant coffee called Maxim. I brought some home with me, but am running out now and can't find a local store that carries it. Can ACTION LINE tell me where I could buy this coffee? Mrs. W.E., Compton.

A. Phoenix, Ariz., is the nearest distributor at present, says Pat Markle, secretary to the district sales manager of General Foods Corp. However, the new instant coffee, which is freeze-dried and reportedly tastes like fresh-brewed coffee, will be available locally after the first of the year. A $3-million production facility is being built in Houston, Tex., to supply the western United States with Maxim.

Overhead Problem

Q. Where can I get an umbrella repaired? J.H., Huntington Park.

A. With the help of Handbag Hospital and Luggage Shop, 512 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, you'll be able to go out walking in the rain. The shop will fix any part of the umbrella and even recover it in any fabric you chose, such as silk or nylon. Jack Metter, the owner, promises to quote you a price before he does the work and provide a guarantee. For information, call 624-7797.

SOUND OFF!

Why should young men have their careers ruined because they smoke marijuana? What's the big sin in it? In Peru, they've been smoking it for hundreds of years. Most authorities say it isn't as harmful as alcohol or cigarettes. Even though harsh penalties are given out to those caught with it, marijuana smoking is increasing. I don't think we should deny anyone the right to do what he wants as long as he isn't interfering with the rights of others. I say, legalize marijuana. W. G., Long Beach.

Hundred Vehicles Plunge

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (UPI)—A 1,750-foot-long steel suspension bridge collapsed under the weight of bumper-to-bumper holiday season traffic Friday evening, dumping about 100 cars and trucks into the icy waters and frozen banks of the Ohio River.

Although only six bodies were recovered Friday night, a rescue official feared the death toll would reach 60. Another official said the actual total number of dead may never be known.

There were 18 known survivors at area hospitals.

A witness said almost the entire length of the bridge collapsed "at once with a roar" into the murky waters 100 feet below "as if a child had tired of his erector set and stepped on it." He said the vehicles on the 39-year-old span which links Ohio with West Virginia were tossed into the water like toys.

SHERIFF Denver Walker of Gallia County, who was directing operations from the Ohio side of the bridge, said of the known dead:

"This is just a drop in the bucket. I'm afraid there are about 60 dead."

Chief William Jones of the U.S. Coast Guard at Huntington, W. Va., said, "We may never know how many of those poor people were actually killed."

At 9 p.m., about four hours after the bridge collapsed, boatmen and scuba divers abandoned their rescue efforts until daylight. However, three boats from the Huntington Coast Guard station continued to patrol through the night, playing spotlights on the surface of the water in hope of finding survivors.

OFFICIALS said a lock would be closed on the river above the bridge and another, opened below the span in an effort to lower the 30-foot water depth to make the job easier for the divers.

The governors of Ohio and West Virginia flew to the scene immediately while federal officials from the Office of Emergency Planning and the Department of Transportation planned to fly in at daybreak along with two congressmen.

Only the three piers remained standing as the span—known locally as the "Silver Bridge" because of its coating of aluminum paint—collapsed, with giant steel beams wrapping around cars and trucks. The girders that fell on the banks were twisted grotesquely with cars and cabs crushed inside them.

ONE WITNESS reported that as the bridge fell, "it looked just like a snake

STRIKE HALTS L.A. PAPER PUBLICATION

The Los Angeles Newspaper Guild Friday pulled 1,100 editorial, advertising and circulation employees out of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner. Three other unions at the newspaper promptly followed them out of the plant, shutting down publication.

The strike against the nation's largest afternoon daily came when negotiators for the company and the union were unable to resolve an impasse over wages, pension benefits, an improved health and insurance plan and other issues.

The strike, shortly after 11 a.m., was followed by general picketing. The company asked for and received a court order restraining the unions from placing more than four pickets at any one entrance to the plant at 1111 S. Broadway. Superior Court Judge Ralph Nutter set a hearing on a preliminary injunction against the pickets for Dec. 29.

In addition to the LANG walkout, members of the International Typographical Union, the Los Angeles Mailers Union and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers left the building. The Herald-Examiner with-

THOUSANDS STRANDED BY BLIZZARD

GRANTS, N.M. (UPI) —

A savage winter storm, driven by 40-mile-an-hour winds which whipped snow into six-foot drifts, lashed out across western New Mexico for the second day Friday and sent 2,000 stranded travelers into churches, private homes and motels for shelter.

No deaths were reported, but rescue workers were traveling along U.S. 66 to search for stranded motorists. Tourists at one motel eight miles west of here went for at least 30 hours without food before supplies could be sent to the scene.

Gov. David Cargo declared an emergency and called out the National Guard. Heavy four-wheel-drive Guard trucks carried 3,000 emergency meals, 300 cots and 900 blankets.

Weddings have become so costly that it's now the father of the bride who breaks down and weeps.

'White Christmas' Comes Early to Desert, Foothills

The high desert of California looked like a snow-covered Christmas card scene Friday night, even though the rest of the Southland crept back gradually from the cold wave.

Chains are still required on many mountain roads, and icy weather will persist in high-elevation resorts and deserts in the north and east.

Long Beach temperatures will rise to an almost-balmy 60 degrees today after sprinkle-bearing clouds begin to clear this morning. Overnight low was 41.

The Weatherman said there was only a small chance of showers today and predicted Sunday would be mostly sunny and still warmer.

Southlanders planning weekend mountain treks are advised to use chains on sleety, snowy roads above 3,000 feet. Snow level was down to 2,000 feet Friday. High temperatures in most mountain areas were around 20 degrees.

Up to a foot of snow halted traffic in Barstow and slowed travel on Interstate 18 to Las Vegas.

Snow covered the Antelope Valley, Mojave Desert, and Yucca Valley. It was the heaviest snow to hit the high desert in a decade.

Palm Springs had its famous sunshine blotted out by a layer of heavy clouds.

Agricultural officials say the freezing weather apparently caused only minor damage to most citrus crops, but half the grape-

U.S. WON'T BOMB DURING VIET TRUCES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States said Friday it will suspend bombing of North Vietnam during the holiday truces.

Washington concurred in the cease-fire periods announced by the Saigon government, which involve a military standdown of 24 hours on Christmas, 24 hours at New Year's and 48 hours at the Vietnamese lunar new year of Tet.

(At one point in his marathon trial, Kirschke was accused by the public defender's office of "talking too much—giving free legal advice to prisoners." He was even said to be filling out legal papers for prisoners, and one was confiscated from his cell.)

'Fuehrer' Slayer Given 20 Years

UAW, GM SHAKE ON NEW DEAL
Walter Reuther (right) Reaches for Hand of GM's Louis Seaton

Combined News Services
John Patter, an ex-lieutenant in the American Nazi Party, was given 20 year sentence early this morning in Arlington, Va., for the Aug. 25 murder of party "Fuehrer" George Lincoln Rockwell.
A jury of 10 men and two women returned the guilty verdict after three hours of deliberation. It was the minimum sentence imposed for first degree murder.
Patter, 29, shook hands with his attorneys and said "thanks an awful lot."
The chief defense attorney, Thomas Harrigan, said, however, that he was "a little disappointed in the verdict" and said he would file appeal motions Monday.
Rockwell was gunned to death from the rooftop of an Arlington shopping center.

Jets Pound Supply Lines Near Hanoi

Combined News Services
SAIGON — Waves of American fighter-bombers dodged intense anti-aircraft fire and some enemy MIG interceptors Friday to strike at war supply routes around Hanoi and Haiphong for the second day in a row, taking advantage of clearing skies after nearly a month of monsoon clouds over North Vietnam. U.S. planes pounded the Canal des Rapides rail and highway bridge five miles northeast of the center of Hanoi for the first time since Oct. 28. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs based in Thailand dropped a string of 3,000-pound bombs along the 738-foot bridge, a link in a major supply line from Red China. The Thunderchief pilots also flew 20 miles west of Hanoi to hit the Hoa Lac MIG base and reported heavily damaging one MIG on the ground. Some MIGs were sighted in the air around the North Vietnamese capital but did not engage the American raiders. Carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawks attacked the Haiphong railroad yard northwest of the center of the port, and a high-way bridge northwest of the city's center. Pilots dropped the center span of the bridge, one of four supply arteries from Haiphong to Communist forces fighting in South Vietnam.
On the ground, fighting was continuing between helicopter-borne U.S. air-cavalrymen reinforced by South Vietnamese infantrymen and a company of North Vietnamese troops in the coastal plain 325 miles northeast of Saigon. Forty-seven North Vietnamese were reported killed. U.S. Marines tangled with North Vietnamese troops north of the outpost of Con Thien, blocking possible infiltration routes just south of the demilitarized zone. Backed by tanks, artillery and fighter-bombers, the Marines reported killing 46 of the enemy in a day-long fight. Marine casualties were put at three dead and 31 wounded. (Related stories Page A-6).

Cong Executioners Leave Note
SAIGON — Police sources said Friday night the assassins of Bui Quang San were Viet Cong who left execution notes on the body describing the outspoken anti-Communist member of the South Vietnamese House of Representatives as "a henchman of U.S. imperialism." Colleagues said San may have been the victim of killers paid by a rival faction in his deeply split political party — the Vnqdd.

Danish Prime Minister Quits
COPENHAGEN — Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag resigned Friday and called for national elections after the Danish Parliament defeated his government on a key economic bill. Krag blamed the government's plight on the devaluation of the British pound. The election is expected to be Jan. 23.

Europe Gold Buying Booming
LONDON — The gold-buying boom swung into another session in Europe's tightly stretched bullion markets Friday. Hoarders and gamblers against the dollar bought the metal to beat rumored plans to plug the drain on national gold reserves.

Algeria Coup Crushed
ALGIERS — President Houari Bou-medienne fired his army chief of staff Friday and announced that loyal forces have put down an attempted coup d'etat by confused men "thirsty for blood and adventure." The ousted staff chief was Col. Tahar Zbiri. He largely symbolizes the old guard National Liberation Front — the FLN — leaders who led Algerian forces in the 7-year rebellion that contributed to France's granting independence to this North African territory in 1962.

U.S. Cites Russ Harassment
WASHINGTON — The Pentagon provided photographic evidence Friday of Soviet ships repeatedly maneuvering in and near U.S. 6th Fleet formations in the Mediterranean. General Motors, UAW Reach Pact

DETROIT — General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers agreed Friday on a three-year contract, heading off the threat of a nationwide strike against the giant corporation in January. The settlement came after 29 hours of continuous bargaining. UAW President Walter P. Reuther and GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton, who led the negotiations, agreed to pay raises and benefits matching those won by the UAW from the Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. this fall. Pay raises and benefits will average more than $1 an hour by 1970. The will cost the auto industry an estimated $3 billion, with GM picking up about half the tab.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS

WASHINGTON — Congress, which pushed Vietnam war effort to new heights and put the brakes on the Great Society, adjourned Friday night after voting new billions for foreign aid, the elderly, school children and the poor. After a long year of much debate and few major legislative triumphs for President Johnson, the House and Senate voted to call it quits until they convene on Jan. 15. Congress approved and sent to President Johnson a record-low foreign-aid spending bill of $2.29 billion—nearly $1 billion below what was requested. Senate approval came on a 54-1 vote shortly after the House had passed it, 198 to 158. The Senate completed congressional approval of the omnibus Social Security bill by an overwhelming 62-14 vote despite the misgivings of several members over its welfare-lightening provisions. President Johnson is considered certain to sign the massive measure into law later this month. This will mean that the 24 million Social Security recipients will receive increases of at least 13 per cent in their February checks due to arrive March 3. Also passed on the final day was a two-year $9.1 billion program of federal aid to public schools, and a $1.77 billion appropriation to continue the war on poverty through the middle of 1968.

Tax Hike Pops Up Again
WASHINGTON — President Johnson's tax increase proposal came back to life Friday with announcement the House Ways and Means Committee will consider it again next month as its priority item in the new session of Congress. The proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on all income taxes has been on the committee's shelf since Oct. 3. The roaring speculation in gold sparked by devaluation of the British pound and encouraged by the possibility the U.S. might slip further in its international payments deficit was the main reason for the committee's announcement, it was learned.

Johnson Signs Meat Bill
WASHINGTON — President Johnson, saluting the author who started a crusade against slaughter house abuses 60 years ago, signed a meat inspection bill Friday that he said would force dirty packing plants to "clean up or close down." The President brought 89-year-old Upton Sinclair to the White House to witness the signing of the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, which he said was probably the most important consumer protection measure passed by Congress this year. "This bill crowns the crusade you began 60 years ago," the President told Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," which described the gore and filth of Chicago's "Packingtown" in 1906.

U.S. to Develop 'Select Force'
WASHINGTON — A new "select force" of 150,000 civilian Army reservists will be created soon for extra weekend training that could lead to active duty. The new priority group will be built around the National Guard's 42nd Division of New York and 26th Division of Massachusetts. It will include 89,000 Guardsmen and 61,000 Army reservists who will be required to attend 72 drills a year on weekends, compared to 48 at present. The group, could be called up and deployed to Vietnam on eight weeks' notice if needed.

STRANDED

Three window washers were stranded 20 stories above the street for 1½ hours Friday in howling winds and below freezing temperatures after the mechanism of their narrow work platform jammed.
They were finally hauled safely to the rooftop of the 27-story building in downtown Montreal.

The three — Daniel Cotton, Guy Gauthier and Lionel Sutton — couldn't raise or lower their mechanical scaffold.

Police and firemen went to the roof of the building and picked the men off their scaffold by lowering a boatswain's chair — a strip of wood slung in a pulley rope.

VOICE SPLITS

The wife of Dr. William S. McBirnie, the controversial narrator of the Voice of Americanism radio program, Friday was granted a divorce after testifying they had "lost complete communication."

Mrs. Wilma Jeanne McBirnie told a Court Commissioner that McBirnie, the pastor of the United Community Church of Glendale, would come home from work and "go directly to bed." The 41-year-old secretary said "I served him two meals each day in bed — breakfast and dinner."

INSECURE

Actress Corinna Calvet Friday said she accepted a $200,000 "love gift" home from chemical company fortune heir Donald P. Scott to cement her relationship with him. She told a Superior Court jury she had felt "very insecure" in her affair with Scott after he allegedly "abandoned" her in Switzerland in 1960 only to pick her up later in Paris and take her back to Los Angeles. Scott is suing to recover more than $750,000 in so-called love gifts.

GLASS JAW

A drill instructor of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego was ordered Friday to stand trial by court martial on charges of striking a recruit and breaking his jaw.

The Recruit, Pvt. Craig A. Lewis, 19, of Washington was listed in satisfactory condition at the San Diego Naval Hospital.

The drill instructor, Staff Sgt. Thomas T. Murray, 24, a seven-year veteran of the Corps, has been relieved of duty pending the outcome of the trial for maltreatment.

HARRY VOTES

Independence, Mo. — Harry S. Truman stopped off at a polling place Friday to vote in the city's $3,975,000 capital bond election.

DIVORCED

Millionaire industrial heir Russell A. Firestone Jr. was granted a divorce in West Palm Beach, Fla., Friday from his third wife, a former West Palm Beach school teacher he had accused of adultery and extreme cruelty. Mrs. Mary Alice Firestone, 32, was awarded custody of the couple's 5-year-old son, Mark, and ordered Firestone to make monthly payments of $3,000 for alimony and $750 for child support.

WILD AFFAIR

Marlon Brando belly-dancing, the Beach Boys singing a Christmas carol, Richard Burton singing and speaking songs, Elizabeth Taylor decked out in a hip-style mini-dress and oodles of diamonds. That was the entertainment for about 2,000 Parisians who paid up to $50 for an evening's fun Friday night. The occasion was the annual benefit gala for the United Nations Children's Fund.

VISAS DENIED

The Finnish government refused transit visas Friday to the four American sailors who deserted the U.S. aircraft carrier Intrepid last month and went to the Soviet Union to protest the Vietnam war. Finnish officials said the Americans failed to present passports with Swedish visas and so there was no reason to issue transit visas.

The sailors are Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif.; John M. Barrilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Michael A. Lindner, of Mt. Pocono, Pa.

Professor's 2 Tots Take 'LSD Trip'

REDWOOD CITY, CA — A warrant for the arrest of a Stanford University professor was issued Friday because his two young sons, 2 and 5, were reportedly accidentally fed LSD.
The warrant named Dr. Jerome A. Feldman, 29, assistant professor of computer sciences.
Sheriff's Capt. Eugene E. Stewart said Feldman's sons were taken last Friday to Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital Center, apparently under the influence of LSD.
The captain said the boys took their "trip" apparently because prescription tablets in the Feldman home were inadvertently switched with tablets containing LSD.
Both boys — Benjamin 2, and Michael, 5 — were reported out of danger when Municipal Judge Lyle R. Edson signed the warrant charging Feldman with illegal possession of the hallucinatory drug.

YULE PROTECTION

Medical history's first heart transplant patient may be well enough to spend Christmas at home, but his doctors in Cape Town, South Africa, said Friday they may keep him in the hospital to protect him from well-wishers. Doctors said they felt attention of the multitude of people who want to congratulate Louis Washkansky, 55, could retard his recovery.

UPSTAGED

President Johnson was upstaged Friday night at the national Christmas tree lighting ceremonies by a canine Santa Claus — complete with a red cap and a trailing white beard. The make believe Santa was the President's white mongrel dog, Yuki.

Yuki rode in a white house limousine with Johnson to the tree lighting ceremonies about a block from the executive mansion. Yuki's last costume appearance was at Lynda Johnson's wedding last week when he was attired in a red and white coat with the inscription "congratulations."

HOPE HOPS

Bob Hope took off Friday from Los Angeles International Airport for his annual Christmas tour of overseas military bases which will again include a visit to South Vietnam.

Hope called his itinerary "very hush-hush and I won't know where I'll be until I've been there," he did disclose, though, that he will perform at bases in Guam and Thailand as well as Vietnam.

Hope was met at the airport by Mayor Samuel W. Yorty who helicoptered in, dressed as Santa Claus.

"Did you come to see us or are you just on your way to some place else?" asked Hope.

Yorty then gave Hope a plaque for delivery to South Vietnam President Thieu. The plaque contains Christmas greetings from Los Angeles to the people of South Vietnam.

BACK, BABY

Stokely Carmichael, Black Power militant just returned from a five-month trip abroad, says he plans to return to Washington, D.C., to live.

"I'm coming back to Washington to stay, baby," he told a group of students at predominantly Negro Howard University. "This is our town. Our town." He arrived to hear a speech by Ron Karenga, a Los Angeles Black Nationalist.

NOT 'LIFE'

University of Wisconsin scientists cautioned Friday those who claim to have produced "life-in-test-tube."

UW experts, reacting to claims by Stanford University biochemist Dr. Arthur Kornberg and two associates that they had artificially produced the genetic building-block DN of a simple virus, charged that DNA is not "life."

Dr. Charles Heidelberger of the UW's cancer research center said DNA is "a chemical present in living cells—a piece of a great big jig-saw puzzle."

WED AGAIN

Bandleader Harry James said Friday he will marry a former Las Vegas showgirl, Joan Boyd, on Dec. 27 in Reno. The marriage will be the third for James, 51, former husband of Betty Grable.

DEATH MYSTERY

Police Friday investigated in Honolulu the mysterious death of a Vietnam war correspondent, whose body was found floating in the ocean off Diamond Head with a bullet wound in his head. He was Troy Leroy Knighten, 40, of Fort Sumner, N.M.

No gun was found and police planned to search the area where his body was pulled ashore. Authorities said Knighten, carrying press cards identifying him as a correspondent with the Overseas Weekly's Saigon offices and with the Overseas Media Corp., arrived in Honolulu from Vietnam via Tokyo.

CONFIRMED

Charles E. Bohlen, veteran U.S. diplomat, was confirmed by the Senate Friday as deputy undersecretary of state. Bohlen, most recently ambassador to Paris, succeeds Foy D. Kohler, who resigned.

Key Testimony Against Archerd Blocked

By MARY NEISWENDER
Some of the most potentially damning testimony yet against multiple-murder suspect William Dale Archerd was ruled inadmissible Friday as the blizzare murder trial concluded its second week.

The case against the 55-year-old former medical attendant is being heard in Los Angeles Superior Court by Judge Adolph Alexander, sitting without jury.

Friday, defense attorneys Philip Erbsen and Ira Reiner — after sitting for nine days without winning many points from the judge — won a major ruling.

Testimony by Dale O. Culbertson, an acquaintance of Archerd, that the silver-haired grandfather asked him to set two fires in the home of his girl friend, and soon-to-be wife, Juanita Plum, and kill her ex-husband, Myron, with a shotgun, was ruled inadmissible.

Judge Alexander said there was no proof the defendant knew that Juanita Plum was the beneficiary of her ex-husband's $24,000 insurance policy.

The prosecutor, Deputy Dist. Attn. Raymond Daniles, argued he was trying to show a pattern in which, he said, Archerd had killed for his fourth wife's $500 insurance policy, had killed another wife's ex-husband, Frank Stewart, for $2,500 insurance, and had attempted to kill Plum in the same manner.

Earlier Friday, Mrs. Virginia Bemmer, a neighbor of Mrs. Plum, testified that Juanita, whom Archerd is accused of murdering with insulin injection two days after he married her in 1958, apparently was worried about Archerd's "hypodermic injections."

A note which Juanita asked Mrs. Bemmer to give to her ex-husband was dated June 17, 1957, while Archerd was living with Mrs. Plum. It read: "Dale is giving me some kind of shots for migraine. I want you to know in case something happens."

Mrs. Bemmer said she "put the note away" and gave it to Plum at the funeral of his ex-wife.

Mrs. Bemmer told Judge Alexander she introduced Archerd, her husband's employee, to his fifth wife in October 1956, and Archerd "moved in with her not too long after."

"Her (Juanita Plum's) personality changed when she met Archerd," the attractive housewife testified. "She was always sweet and a very religious person until she met Mr. Archerd."

Myron W. Plum preceded Mrs. Bemmer to the witness stand to testify that when he and his wife ended their 21-year-old marriage he gave her a $35,000 home in Monrovia, furniture, a car, $3,400 in promissory notes, $3,000 in savings bonds, $11,000 in cash, agreed that she remain beneficiary on his $24,000 life insurance, and gave her $500 monthly alimony.

The state is attempting to show that Archerd lived with Mrs. Plum from October 1957 until he married her March 10, 1958, completely depleting her assets, including two insurance claims for fires at her home that the state charges he set. When the funds were gone, prosecutor Daniels said in his opening statement, Archerd married Mrs. Plum, then killed her with insulin injection two days later to get the $35,000 home.

Earlier Friday, the state concluded testimony in the case of Archerd's fourth wife, Zella, with the testimony of Dr. George M. Chambers.

Dr. Chambers testified he was called to the Archerd home in Covina July 24, 1956, by Archerd who told him thugs had entered the home and injected Mrs. Archerd with an unknown drug.

He said Mrs. Archerd didn't seem upset, but when he was called back at 4 p.m. the next day she was in a deep coma.

"I wanted to put her in a hospital . . . or suggested sending an internist to find the cause of the coma," Dr. Chambers said, "but Mr. Archerd said 'no.' I wanted to treat her, but didn't know what was causing the coma."

He was called back an hour and a half later when Mrs. Archerd died.

Dr. Gerald Ridge, a forensic pathologist, Friday, repeated under cross-examination that insulin was suspected in the death of Archerd's fourth wife, Zella, but there was no known way to identify insulin in tissue at the time.

Dr. Ridge, cross-examined for two hours, testified that insulin was "the most probable cause of Mrs. Archerd's death after all examinations were concluded, but we couldn't prove it." The only evidence, he said, was four needle marks on Mrs. Archerd's buttocks.

HE SAID that a year later, 1957, in England, insulin was detected as a cause of death because tissue was immediately taken from the injection site. (The case in England is the only one in world-wide jurisprudence where a man has been convicted of murder by insulin.)

Dr. Ridge participated in the autopsy of Mrs. Archerd a few days after her death in July 1956.

Archerd is charged with three murders which occurred within Los Angeles County. However, three other deaths outside the jurisdiction of the court are being detailed in an attempt to show a "pattern of murder."

Bus Drivers Cancel Plans for Boycott

By GEORGE LAINE

Southern California Rapid Transit District drivers Friday cancelled plans to boycott robbery-plagued bus routes in the South-Central section of Los Angeles.

But, leaders of the bus drivers — victims of more than 350 robberies in the first 11 months of this year — warned they will reserve the right to call drivers off their routes if violence should resume.

If they do, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen leaders said, the action will "be taken immediately and without notice."

BRT OFFICIALS said only five bus robberies have been committed thus far in December, and reasoned that stepped up police protection has been responsible for the reduction in the "one-a-day" rate of stickups.

"Now that we have seen what protection can accomplish, we want to make sure it continues at this level," said Kenneth R. Moore, general chairman of the BRT. "We won't tolerate anything which might lead us back to the high frequency of robberies, beatings, knifings and shootings."

Mayor Sam Yorty said the bus drivers have already been assured police protection will continue. Yorty praised Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin whose plan to place 200 officers on emergency "bus patrol" only was credited with cutting the robbery rate.

REDDIN LATER added 50 motorcycle officers to the patrol and Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess chipped in 50 deputies in patrol cars to help in county areas.

"The union's decision to continue service was based on the understanding the protection will continue," said the mayor.

"Its officials have been assured by us that every necessary step to halt bus robberies will be taken."

Decision of the bus drivers to cancel the walk-out — previously postponed until Friday — was made after membership surveyed the December crime totals to date.

In the previous 11 months of this year, robbers attacking buses had killed one driver, knifed two others, bludgeoned one with a tire iron and beaten six others.

That the state pay full costs to counties when counties are providing programs which are essentially state responsibilities.

—And that the state either eliminate property tax exemptions or provide funds to compensate local governments for the loss of this money.

The hearing, being conducted by members of the Assembly's Revenue and Taxation Committee and the Municipal and County Government Committee, marks the start of a legislative study into revenue problems and structure of local government.

George Hearst, publisher of the newspaper, observed that "interruption of printing has been caused by the labor stoppage." Hearst said publication would resume "as soon as possible." But he declined to discuss when or if negotiations with the striking unions would be held again.

Charles Perlik, secretary-treasurer of the American Newspaper Guild, parent organization of LANG, said that the strikers had demanded wage increases at least equivalent to those won by LANC members at the Long Beach Independent and Press-Telegram. The Long Beach settlement — $34 per week over the 3-year length of the contract, an improved pension plan and an opportunity provide a more economical health-insurance package — was approved by the union membership Wednesday night. Herald-Express management has offered a $13 pay raise over a 2-year period with no fringe benefits.

Rally Flops at CSLA

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—A rally for students arrested in the wake of a mob uprising at California State College at Los Angeles failed to gain momentum Friday and died out minutes after starting.

Eleven of the 16 persons arrested, and now free on bail, showed up at the campus free-speech area for the rally and an impromptu news conference. But there was no show of support from other students, and newsmen began drifting away shortly after the conference began.

MAIN theme of the abbreviated session was voiced by Ron Ridenour, spokesman for the Student Democratic Society (SDS), who spoke of "facism on the campus."

Sex Education Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A citizens committee urged the State Board of Education Friday to get California schools involved in sex education.

The committee proposed sex education from kindergarten through high school.

"Helping children grow into maturity is not easy for a generation of adults who have grown up in a society frightened of sex," the Citizens Committee for Family Life Education told the board.

But, it said, it was necessary for schools to join home and church to meet the "acute dilemma threatening the unity of the American family."

"Rising rates of divorce, illegitimacy, venereal disease, run-away children and juvenile delinquency are of grave concern to us," a committee report said.

It suggested as a partial answer that the board adopt a policy statement urging school districts to include "family life education in the curriculum as a matter of high priority."

It should include not only growth and reproduction, but also the emotional and psychological phases of human development, parental responsibility and effective interpersonal relations," the report said.

The objective, the committee said, should be "to help young people become informed, compassionate and functioning men and women."

The report said this "can only be done by breaking through the silence and half-truths that have obscured the knowledge and feeling of the older generations."

Get Rid of 'Status Quo' With GOP — Dirksen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican congressional leaders urged American voters Friday to give the GOP enough power in Congress next year to rid the nation of the "status quo" of steady increases in the cost of living, interest rates and crime.

DIRKSEN FORD

"We're against this kind of status quo," House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said in a nationwide television broadcast with Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen in reply to President Johnson's blast this week at Republicans in Congress.

Dirksen and Ford were particularly rankled by Johnson's charge at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach Tuesday that Republicans were "wooden soldiers of the status quo" who obstructed his legislative proposals at every turn.

In a half-hour, "equal time" response to Johnson's televised speech, the GOP leaders said Republicans actually had improved laws enacted this year.

Dirksen said Johnson's speech was notable for its omissions. "The wooden Republican soldiers were standing behind the President while his own troops were pummeling and pelting him in the Senate and on television about Vietnam, the Senator said.

"Don't forget these soldiers were sustaining him and our own live troops in Vietnam, which is infinitely more important," Dirksen said.

He also accused the President of neglecting to mention congressional cuts in the foreign aid program that were "responsive to the country," and failing to refer to the plight of farmers. Farm prices are far below parity, he said, and farmers must buy supplies at inflated prices.

"We're against the status quo," Ford said. He described Republicans as soldiers fighting inflation and high interest rates.

Ford flashed a dollar bill before the television cameras and said its value had dropped 13 per cent since President Dwight D. Eisenhower left the White House in 1961.

Dirksen said the national economy still suffers from an unfavorable balance of payments in foreign trade and that gold reserves are going down.

"And prices go up," Ford added.

"And crime goes up," Dirksen said.

"Up 67 per cent since 1960," Ford said. "We're against this kind of status quo."

Ford asserted there had been a cumulative deficit of $60 billion over six years of Democratic administration. He argued it was better to reduce federal spending than to approve Johnson's request for higher taxes.

Dirksen complained of congressional votes that Johnson cited to show Republican opposition to various bills. "Somebody ought to tell the whole story," he said, adding that Johnson's examples were not votes to kill measures but to improve them.

$275,000 Awarded in Chevy Suit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Sacramento jury has awarded an additional $275,000 in damages in the lengthy case involving the General Motors Corp. and one of its 1965 Chevrolet Corvettes models.

The Superior Court jury's decision brought the total amount of damages awarded in the case to more than $650,000. The defendants are General Motors and Mathew Rodgers, one of the drivers involved in a 1965 accident resulting in two deaths.

The latest jury award went to the heirs and estates of the two victims, Philip W. Dustman of Fall River Mills and his brother-in-law, Norman J. Badorek of Sacramento.

Earlier another jury awarded $375,000 to Badorek's widow and young daughter after a 56-day trial, the longest civil suit in Sacramento County history.

Mrs. Badorek's attorneys had said the Corvette's fiberglass construction, with its gasoline tank mounted high in the rear trunk, was unsafe. The car burst into flames on the Yolo Causeway west of Sacramento after it was struck by Rodgers' car.

wiggling across the river and then it was gone."

Mrs. Ann Davis, who watched the collapse from a storefront in Kanauga, the bridge's Ohio terminus, said, "There must have been a trailer truck right where it first split."

"There was a noise like a sonic boom. The cab went in the river, the trailer fell on the bank." One of the dead was identified as Melvin Cantrell of Gallipolis Ferry near Point Pleasant, which is the eastern terminus of the bridge. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Holzer Hospital in nearby Gallipolis, Ohio. His wife was admitted in fair condition. The couple's six children had been waiting on the other side of the bridge.

Ironically, a new bridge had been scheduled to open Monday at Marietta, Ohio, to relieve the traffic on the heavily traveled span. Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio ordered the other span opened Friday night.

THE WESTERN terminus of the bridge is Kanauga, Ohio, a town of about 350 persons. Officials said many natives of Kanauga had been en route to Point Pleasant, which has about 7,000 residents, for their Christmas shopping when the disaster occurred.

At a news conference held at the scene late Friday night, Rhodes and Gov. Hulett Smith of West Virginia announced that all river traffic had been halted and a temporary morgue was set up at the National Guard armory at Point Pleasant.

P. W. Masheter, state director of highways for Ohio, and Burl A. Sawyers, his West Virginia counterpart, were ordered to launch a full investigation.

Sawyers said, "There had been no indication of any trouble on the bridge."

THE ILL-FATED bridge was last inspected in 1965. Sawyers said it was the policy to inspect bridges every two years. He said he did not know if the silver bridge had been inspected this year.

As frost settled over the wreckage, rescuers took tires from the autos on the banks and built fires to keep warm and provide light for workers trying to free cars from the girders.

William Needham Jr., 27, a tractor-trailer driver from Ashboro, N.C., who survived, said, "We hit the water and the truck sank like a rock."

Needham said he held his breath, pried open a window and swam to the surface where he was plucked from the water by volunteers.

Frank Wamsley, 28, of Point Pleasant, who was in another rig, said he did not remember "too much of how I got out."

"I got hold of something and swam to the top," Wamsley said.

Needham and Wamsley said they believed their partners were dead.

"I wanted to make it home for Christmas," Needham said. "But, I'm happy just to be alive."

SURVIVORS TELL STORIES

Struggle in Freezing Waters

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. — Three truck drivers who survived when the bridge they were crossing collapsed into the Ohio River said Friday night they feared their cab partners didn't get out.

William Needham Jr., 27, of Ashboro, N.C., was wheeling a tractor-trailer rig loaded with miscellaneous cargo from Kernersville, N.C., to Milwaukee, Wis.

"Now I know what it is like to drown. I expected to die," Needham told reporters from his hospital bed here. He suffered a back fracture.

Needham's driving partner, R. E. Towe, was missing. Needham said he feared Towe perished.

"He was in the sleeping berth in the rear of the cab, and I think he had strapped himself in. He had no chance for survival. The cab went all the way to the bottom," Needham said.

NEEDHAM said his westbound truck was about halfway across the bridge when the collapse occurred.

"I looked out and saw steel beams crumbling," he said he was still in the cab when it went under water, but he couldn't see anything because the water was dark and muddy. The windows in the cab had been rolled up and I began to feel for a handle.

"I felt and felt — holding my breath — knowing I was about to give out, but I could not find the handle." Then, Needham said, "I noticed a little crack in the window and finally forced it down. I managed to grab a box and hang on."

William Edmondson, 38, of King, N.C., who was hospitalized with a broken arm and cuts, said he feared his Hennis Freight Lines driving partner, Harold Cundiff of Winston-Salem, N.C., didn't survive. They were headed for Detroit.

"It was bumper-to-bumper traffic on the bridge all the way," Edmondson said. "Up in front were two tractor-trailer rigs loaded with gravel.

The collapse started gradually at first, as the road slowly tilted sideways. Then it was fast, and everything was just falling. It got very black.

"I found myself swimming around in the water. This truck seat came floating by and I grabbed onto it. Off to my left there was another man in the water hollering 'I must have been in there about 10 minutes, and man it was cold. I was paddling with one arm because I couldn't use the other one."

"Then this tugboat came along and dragged me out. I was the only one they pulled out. I don't know what happened to my partner and I don't know what happened to that other guy that I saw in the water."

William Frank Wamsley, 28, of Point Pleasant, said he was driving a West Virginia Road Commission truck across the span when "the bridge just fell over."

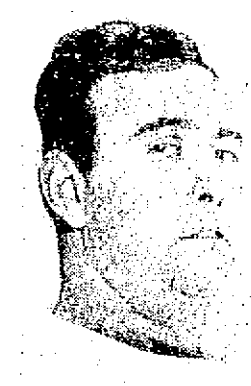

He continued:

"I don't know how I got out. I thought I was going to die. I somehow got out of the cab and floated to the top of the water."

The Old Bridge Was Bouncing Up and Down

"The old bridge was bouncing up and down like it always does," said Howard Boggs, 24, one of the survivors. "Then all of a sudden everything was falling down . . . my feet touched the bottom of the river. Among the missing was Boggs' 18-year-old wife and his 17-month-old daughter."

"They just went down and didn't come up with me," he said. "I don't know how I came up, I must have blacked out again because the next thing I knew, I was hanging on to this barrel."

Kirschke Jury Deliberates

Jurors weighing the guilt or innocence of Jack Kirschke will deliberate for three hours today, then recess for the weekend if they reach no decision.

The six-man, six-woman panel pondered fruitlessly Friday before halting deliberations at 4:20 p.m. They were locked up for the night at a motel near the Los Angeles courthouses where Kirschke's complex, double-murder trial was held.

THE JURY IS scheduled to meet for the third day at 9 a.m. today, but Superior Court Judge Kathleen Parker said she would call the jury back at noon today and — if the panel is still undecided on a verdict — order a recess until 9 a.m. Monday.

Friday the jurors discussed the case for less than six hours.

After commencing the study at 9 a.m., the 12 recessed just before 12:30 p.m. and boarded buses for lunch in nearby Chinatown.

Three bailiffs—two men and a woman—escorted the chilled jury to the lunchcon.

Kirschke is accused of firing two bullets into the bodies of his wife, dress designer Elaine Terry Kirschke, 43, and executive and pilot Orville William Brankham, 41, as the pair lay in an embrace on Kirschke's own bed. The two were slain in the fashionable Rivo Alto Canal of Long Beach's Naples area last April 8.

THE JURORS have three verdicts open to them. They can find the defendant guilty of first or second degree murder, or they can acquit him.

Judge Parker—in charging the jurors Thursday—eliminated manslaughter as a possible verdict. The manslaughter finding has been a classic determination in courtrooms for years in cases involving, as in Kirschke's, a possible crime of passion. Both defense and prosecution waived the manslaughter finding prior to the jury's initial studies, which began Thursday.

No Tears for Jack

trict attorney does participate in—although not too frequently.

"I remember once," says one murder-tape suspect. "When Kirschke, that hippie that was in here on dope charges, and Archer, the one that's supposedly involved in the insulin murders, were eating together and talking about their publicity."

"The hippie said he 'outclassed' 'em all. I think Kirschke had the second spot and Archer was third—on the bottom of the page. But they were all on the same page."

Later, the prisoner recalled, Archer was on top.

"Kirschke commented to Archer that he was 'glad to see you coming along—now they'll lay off me.'"

But to everyone in the cell block, the gaunt, personable attorney, is a "good guy."

"The 'cop haters' in here didn't like him at first—he was 'cop' to them," one county prisoner admitted. "Now they all think he's great. Even the 'cop haters' like him."

He's the kind of a guy, they say, who sticks to the law.

"When we ask him something — and the law is against us, he pounds the table and says the law is against us."

But Kirschke doesn't only converse with the prisoners — his visitors are frequent and varied.

"Everyone from his relatives to the girl friends—hoping to be related—visit him. There's at least one gal I know—from Brooklyn—who proposed by mail."

"He's about the most popular one in here," his jail mates admit.

"But then," they say philosophically, "like his publicity—someone else will come along and beat him out."

State Income Spending Up

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State spending for the first five months of the current fiscal year rose by 10 per cent from 1966, but income was up by 52.3 per cent, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported Friday.

Cash receipts from July through November hit $1.11 billion, while spending was $1.23 billion.

Rafferty Says He Can Win Over Sen. Kuchel

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

WASHINGTON — Dr. Maxwell Rafferty said Friday he could beat Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel in the Republican senatorial primary next year and predicted he'll have the money with which to do it.

However, Rafferty said if he makes the bid he'll not resign as State Superintendent of Public Instruction "for the very obvious reason that I might get licked."

Rafferty told a press conference that a massive nationwide mailing to "grass roots" Republicans has resulted in pledges totaling "close to" the $500,000 he estimates he'd need to campaign for the senate. He estimated cash contributions thus far at "about $100,000."

Rafferty scoffed at recent polls showing him running behind Kuchel in the primary or any prospective Democratic nominee, and recalled that polls in 1962 showed him losing the campaign for his present non-partisan post.

He claimed Kuchel has no organized Republican support in California. Kuchel, Rafferty said, represents the Christopher-Rockefeller wing of the GOP that was proved unpopular in the 1964 and 1966 primaries.

Rafferty said he's been assured by Gov. Ronald Reagan of the governor's absolute neutrality in the Republican primary battle. But, Rafferty said Reagan has not taken several opportunities to dissuade him from entering the primary.

Rafferty said he would not announce his Senate candidacy until "as late as possible" since doing so would deprive him of free television time he is now enjoying. He indicated that an announcement of his intentions would be made by late February, however.

He said the issues in his prospective campaign would include Vietnam, street rioting, crime and local control of education.

Rafferty blamed the U.S. Supreme Court for decisions that have encouraged criminality and street rioting. He said he was opposed to appointment of "political hacks" and "child-marrying mountain climbers" to the high court and said that, as senator he wouldn't have voted to confirm any of its incumbent members.

He singled out Chief Justice Earl Warren as a poor appointment because Warren never before had sat on a judicial bench.

Rafferty said he favored formation of a federal riot control force to quell disorders such as race riots and said this could be formed from specially trained army units. He denied that this would be a form of "storm trooperism" and that, rather, the students who broke into a San Francisco college's student newspaper office more typified storm trooper activity.

Rafferty said he favored stronger efforts to end the Vietnam War and endorsed the position of Gen. Eisenhower. Beyond this, Rafferty made no specific recommendations because "I have no expertise in weaponry and I'm no tactician."

Present federal aid to education legislation is full of loopholes, Rafferty declared, and said funds would be better spent going to families of poor children rather than to the school districts in which they live. He said his trip here will include a conference in greater state control of education with Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., chairman of a special House education subcommittee.

Rafferty said he supports a move for Reagan to become the GOP presidential nominee. He said that although Reagan himself disavows such activity, people around the governor are "spending a great deal of energy and money" to this end.

Rafferty said the most likely Democratic candidate for senator next year is former State Controller Alan Cranston because Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty has many political liabilities and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh has his eyes on running for governor in 1970.

Rafferty described President Johnson as "the most unpopular president in 100 years" among Californians and that he faces trouble in the primary there from the candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn.

Although the move of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace to qualify a third party for next year's state ballot is "tunneling like a dry creek," Rafferty said Wallace's name on the Democratic primary ballot would add to the President's troubles in California.

Wallace Claiming 51,000 Signers

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — The American Independent Party (AIP) Friday claimed it has signed up more than 51,000 California voters in its campaign to put the name of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace on the state's primary ballot next June.

If 66,059 voters register

Reagan For Campaign Fund Aid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Reagan gave his support and encouragement Friday to a joint Republican-Democratic program to interest business and industrial workers in politics.

The chief aim of the program is to encourage them to contribute to political campaigns.

Unless the voters support the two parties, Reagan said, government may take over financing of political campaigns. That, he added, would be "a crying shame."

"If we don't have faith in our citizen's ability to make his decisions and cast his vote, we don't deserve to have a two-party system," Reagan told a group of businessmen and leaders of both political parties.

The governor, slightly hoarse from a cold, commented, "If anyone asks me how I feel, I'm miserable... Welcome to Death Valley."

Earlier, the state Republican chairman, Thomas W. Halley, said, "the real problem of American politics today is involvement. They're removed from it. They don't have this direct stake."

NEW TAX LAW REAPS HARVEST

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state's new higher income tax law made itself felt for the first time during the last five months and poured $156 million into the key general fund, Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported Friday.

He said that because of legislation requiring persons in higher income brackets to prepay some of their anticipated tax bill, the fund was $134 million wealthier than during the same period last year. The legislation also virtually doubled the personal income tax.

Cash pouring into the fund, from which the state must do most of its business, totaled $1.10 billion dollars, an increase of 52.3 per cent or more than double the amount reported during the comparable five months in 1966.

Flournoy also reported that expenditures from the fund during the period starting July 1 increased 10 per cent over 1966 at $1.22 billion.

Mrs. Reagan May Resign Her Arts Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Mrs. Nancy Reagan, attending her first session with the California Arts Commission, said Friday she probably will have to resign because "it just hasn't timed out very well for me."

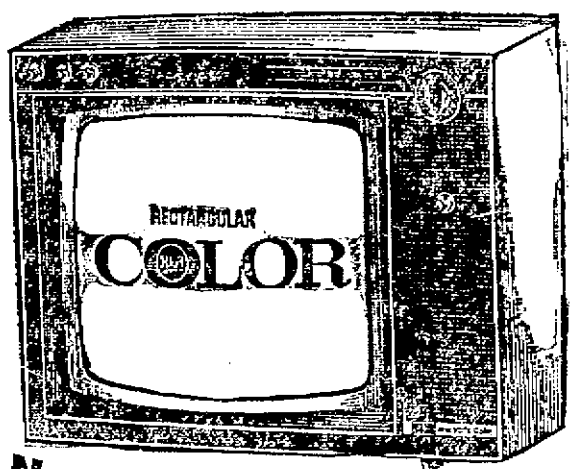

The governor's wife spent about 45 minutes at the commission's offices before catching a plane for the Reagan home in Los Angeles. She dedicated a collection of paintings by California artists in a new display room.

Mrs. Reagan said her own busy schedule has kept her from taking part in commission meetings.

"It may be I will have to resign for someone who can actively take part," Mrs. Reagan said.

"I would like to continue to do all I could do — perhaps in an honorary membership," she added.

Cong Offer $1,700 Reward for Yank Sergeant

By HERBERT C. PELKEY

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Marine Sgt. Melvin Murrel Smith says he wants to go back to South Vietnam, despite the $1,700 reward the Viet Cong have offered for him, dead or alive.

The tall, 21-year-old Marine, now home on leave, is scheduled to be discharged next month but told reporters Friday: "I want to go back" — as a civilian, probably.

Shrugging off the reward offer, he said: "When they put it on the personal basis, you know you're hurting them, right in Hanoi, and then you know you've done your job successfully."

The twice-wounded leatherneck, who enlisted as Melvin Murrel, was leader of a platoon and training Vietnamese militiamen in the village of Tuy Loan. He did his job too well to suit the enemy.

Smith, or "Trung-si Mel" (Sgt. Mel) as he is known to the enemy, did not feel like a man with a price on his head as he relaxed at his home here on a Christmas leave after 27 months in South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong had ringed the Da Nang area with wanted posters and had used bullhorns to broadcast into Tuy Loan the announcement of its reward for Smith.

Smith's "combined action" platoon five miles south of Da Nang was part of a program that integrates Vietnamese militiamen with Marine and Navy corpsmen in the northern provinces. There are 79 such platoons.

Of the posters and broadcasts, Smith says: "They just do this to terrorize the villagers. Villagers wait to see if you are afraid, but I carried on as normal."

It paid off. The villagers with whom he worked would come to him readily with information about Viet Cong activities and infiltrators. They even gave him a farewell party before he left six days ago.

"I think they are some of the best people I ever met in my life . . . I hated to leave," he told reporters while scribbling Christmas cards to friends he left behind.

Smith, who earned his high school diploma in the service, has two desires, to enter college and to return "to my friends."

If he does go back, it will probably be as a civilian, he said.

"They'd really try to collect the third time, because I'd be a challenge to the VC. If they have a price on your head, they always remember it."

Smith said he thought he could do more work as a civilian and would like to help the U.S. Aid Mission in relocating refugees.

"I really loved the kids," he said.

He thinks that every country that is concerned with keeping its own freedom should be represented in Vietnam. "If they could see all the communism there and could imagine it even worse in their own countries, they would realize the danger," he said.

IN ESCALATION U.S. China War Seen by Morse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate ended a year of bitter debate on Vietnam with a prediction by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., that the U.S. is preparing for a new escalation in the fighting that will result in war with Communist China.

"There is on the way an attempt to escalate this war and force a surrender," he said in a floor speech in the last hour before Congress adjourned. "That surrender will result in a war with China. It will take three million American boys on the mainland of China."

MORSE spoke up after Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., urged President Johnson to reject any proposals for "hot pursuit" of North Vietnamese or Viet Cong forces into Cambodia and Laos or for a limited invasion of North Vietnam.

Morse said the U.S. already is "guilty of invasion of North Vietnam with our airpower, inexcusable atrocities, men, women and children we have killed . . . the inhumanity of the U.S. in Southeast Asia."

"The secretary of State ought to have been fired four years ago," Morse added.

COOPER appealed to Johnson to rule out any "short-term military expediency" in the war that might serve to widen the conflict or increase U.S. involvement.

"I earnestly hope that no further expansion will come from the initiative or decisions of the United States," he said.

"There is a growing pessimism in this country and in the world about the possibility of negotiations," Cooper added. "This pessimism will, I believe, become confirmed if the war is so expanded that the only settlement possible is by armed force."

Nixon for Retaliation on Red China Airbases

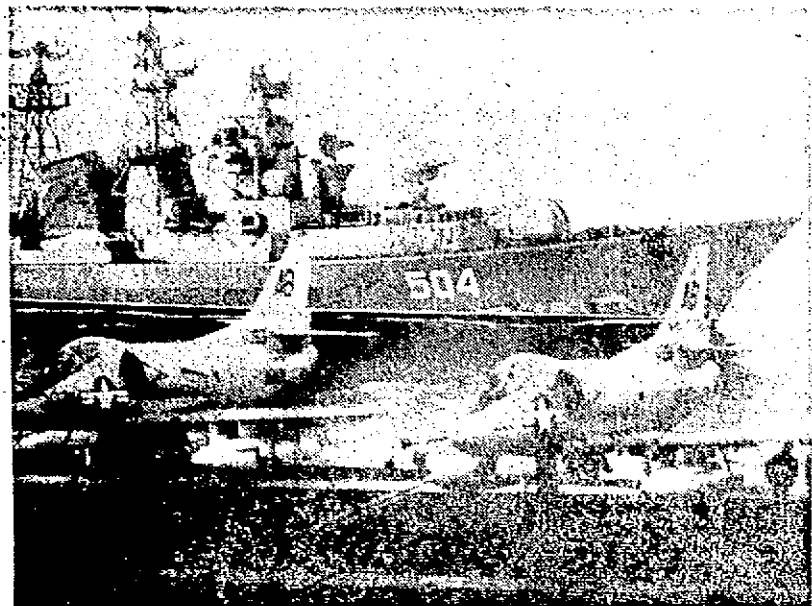

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Friday that in the event Chinese planes are used for attacks on South Vietnam — or if Chinese airfields are made available to North Vietnamese planes for such attacks — the U.S. should retaliate against China.

"The Red Chinese should be put on notice that if they intervene in the air or make airfields available on the ground — as they did in Korea, we will retaliate, and not on the ground," Nixon said.

Nixon, a likely candidate of the GOP presidential nomination, said he does not favor mass escalation of the war in Vietnam at this time, but could foresee it if conditions changed.

He said he favors winning the war militarily, economically and diplomatically.

Rusk Says U.S. Won't Rush to Recognize the Greek Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicated Friday the U.S. will not rush to recognize the Greek military regime.

"We will wait for a while," Rusk said, answering a question whether a recognition should be expected now that he has returned to Washington from the ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels this week.

Discussing the Greek situation with reporters on his arrival, Rusk said he hopes Greece "will move as promptly as possible to a constitutional government."

Meanwhile a State Department spokesman said G. Frederick Reinhardt, U.S. ambassador to Italy, called on Greece's King Constantine in Rome Thursday night at the king's request.

The State Department acknowledged Constantine had asked to see Reinhardt and the two had an informal discussion. But no information was disclosed on the substance of the meeting.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey declined to say whether the United States was using its influence to try and bring about a reconciliation between the military junta in Athens which seized power last April, and the royal family in Rome.

QUOTE-ACROSTIC

EDITED BY Charles Preston

HOW TO SOLVE THE QUOTE-ACROSTIC:
1. Define "Clues," writing definitions in "Words" column over numbered dashes.
2. Transfer letters to numbered squares in diagram; black spaces separate words.
3. When pattern is completed, quotation can be read left to right. The first letters of the filled-in "Words," reading down, form an acrostic yielding the speaker's name and the topic of the quotation.

SAYS SILENTS IDOL RAMON NOVARRO

Today's Stars Are Slobs

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ramon Novarro, matinee hero of the silents and early talkies, finds today's movie stars wanting in the idol department.

Novarro, who set feminine hearts aflame 40 years ago, says today's leading men look like slobs on the screen in comparison with the contemporaries.

"In our day you always looked your best, on the screen and off," he explained. "Today the leading men don't seem to care how they look."

"They pay no attention to makeup or how their hair is combed. And there is no mystery to them. They do too many pictures a year and show up on television too often. They are overpublicized."

"The public gets tired of actors if they see too much of them. Audiences deserve a rest from the stars."

NOVARRO, appearing a decade younger than his 68 years, lives quietly in a comfortable home in Laurel Canyon. He's still acting, appearing in character roles in occasional movies and television shows.

A lifelong bachelor, Novarro has some salty observations on wedded bliss.

"Marriage is one mistake I didn't make," he grinned. "When a man falls in love he is dead from the neck up. The more a woman is in love with you the quicker she will give you up. And if you marry her she soon begins to run your life. That's not for me."

With a twinkle in his eyes, Novarro made it clear he continues to see the ladies. Indeed, some of his old costars remain his friends.

"Alice Terry and I are still great friends. We played in 'The Prisoner of Zenda' together, and costarred in 'Scaramouche,' 'Lovers' and 'Where the Pavement Ends.' All four were silents. Not long ago we took a painting class together. She is an accomplished artist."

AFTER ALL these years there is still a Ramon Novarro fan club with headquarters in London.

Composed mostly of grandmothers, the club publishes a fan newsletter ever two or three months, mailing it to the actor's admirers around the world.

"One Christmas they sent me a lampshade with names of fans written on it from various countries," he recounted happily. "I will visit the fan club next year when I go to Europe."

Growing old has failed to dim the wit and activity of the Mexican-born star.

"There are three things one must consider about growing old," he said in mock seriousness. "One is loss of memory and I can't remember the other two."

"But I have no trouble memorizing my lines for the few jobs I accept, and I have other interests: real estate, a store and an apartment house. Being single helps. I am thinking of selling everything and spending the rest of my life traveling. You couldn't do that with a wife."

RAMON NOVARRO
Marriage? Never!

Kramer's Newest Movie Handles Miscegenation Theme Tastefully

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer-director Stanley Kramer makes message pictures, films with social comment provocatively stated.

His newest, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," deal with miscegenation. Having already explored international atomic warfare ("On the Beach"), racial intolerance ("The Defiant Ones"), war criminals ("Judgment at Nuremberg"), Kramer is nothing if not topical.

girl (Katherine Houghton), much to the shock of her parents (Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn) and to the Chagrin of his parents (Beah Richards and Roy E. Glenn).

Kramer has handled the story tastefully and with humor. Although some of the dialogue is the saltiest yet heard on the screen, it's the way people talk today. It rings true.

Plainly, the director is crying out for tolerance, an end to racial discrimination and bigotry.

Too often such messages are pounded home with such ferocity that it is much like driving a tack with a sledge hammer. Wisely Kramer has turned to the fragile humor of the situation to make his point.

Prudently or otherwise he scrupulously avoided an outright love scene between the black man and the white girl.

The real beauty in the story lies with the performances of Tracy and Hepburn in their last appearance together. Long intimate friends before Tracy's death last June, the couple played man and wife so convincingly that they overshadowed the young lovers.

Soon, Joyce, having finished the first chapter of "A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man," has sent it, with "Dubliners," to Pound. "I think your novel is damn fine stuff — I dare say you know it quite as well as I do — clear and direct like Merimee. I am sending it off at once to The Egoist." As to Dubliners: "I think the stories are good — possibly too thorough, too psychological or subjective in treatment to suit that brute in New York." Pound louted Joyce everywhere: "Lewis, Hueffer (Ford) and every one with whom I have spoken of the novel has called it good stuff. The 'Araby' has gone to America."

When "Dubliners" is finally published in London in 1914 Pound reviews it enthusiastically. Pointing out that "freedom from sloppiness is so rare in contemporary English prose," he hails Joyce for his "clear hard prose. He deals with subjective things, but he presents them with such clarity of outline that he might be dealing with locomotives or with builders' specifications. For that reason one can read Mr. Joyce without feeling that one is conferring a favour."

In early 1924 Pound climaxed his fight of 10 years on Joyce's behalf by insisting that "Ulysses" entitled Joyce to the Nobel Prize for literature. — Nat Honig.

U.S. Charges Trucker Made Slave of Japanese Girl, 9

3-36 SLAVE — US Charges RICHMOND (UPI) — A Richmond truck driver was held Friday on $50,000 bail for allegedly "enslaving" his 9-year-old adopted Japanese daughter.

The charge against Thomas C. Franks, 40, was the 10th in the history of the country, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. William Bartlett. He said the other nine occurred shortly after the Civil War.

Franks was indicted by the county grand jury Thursday and ordered to enter a plea next Friday before Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason.

The indictment accused Franks of enslaving the girl, beating her with a rubber hose, and sexually molesting her.

Franks, through his attorney, denied mistreating the girl.

Neighbors called welfare workers after hearing the child scream.

The girl was taken to juvenile hall where she told authorities she had been beaten with a rubber hose and molested by Franks.

She also said she was forced to clean his home, wash his clothes and cook his meals.

Franks, a former Navy petty officer, told police he and his former wife adopted the girl in Japan when she was a baby.

She was brought to the United States at the age of three months.

Franks and his wife separated a short time later. Judge Arnason ordered an inquiry into the alleged adoption procedure.

Bill of Rights Meaning Told by High Court Justice

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

"Radiant gifts fashioned from the spirit of men" are the Bill of Rights, State Supreme Court Justice Raymond L. Sullivan told a Constitutional Rights Foundation luncheon Friday in Los Angeles.

Some, he said, "are prone to underrate liberties of the individual when their own are not in jeopardy . . . some have become bored and insensitive to them, as with a material possession . . . There are many people who are unperturbed over the rights of their neighbors largely because any challenge to their own seems highly remote."

The foundation, meeting in Baltimore Hotel, presented awards and cash prizes to six teachers for developing the best classroom materials designed to encourage better understanding of the Bill of Rights. The foundation's main concern is that the Bill of Rights is generally taught by rote—students learn what the Bill of Rights says, not what it means.

AND THE nation has been slow, itself, to heed some of those rights. Justice Sullivan noted, for example, it was 140 years after the Bill's adoption that states were compelled to appoint counsel for an indigent defendant, and then only in capital cases. It was 171 years after adoption that such appointment was required in all serious crimes.

The Bill of Rights, he said, places restrictions on powers of government in the administration of criminal justice—procedural safeguards "designed to protect the weak and the friendless in an uneven contest with the strong and the powerful.

"Because these safeguards are invoked by the criminal element of our society, we are apt to lose sight of their essential constitutional purpose. We forget that, while they assist the accused, they also protect a free society against the excesses of power. To use the words of your late distinguished United States District Judge William Mathis, we forget 'that the rights of good men are secure as long as the rights of bad men are protected.'"

STRESSING that the Bill of Rights "is not a lifeless relic of antiquity," Sullivan called it rather "in reality and in essence . . . a limitation on the power of government."

Sullivan quoted the late Justice Robert H. Jackson: "The very purpose of a Bill of Rights was to withdraw certain subjects from the vicissitudes of political controversy, to place them beyond the reach of majorities and officials and to establish them as legal principles to be applied by the courts."

"One's right to life, liberty and property, to free speech, a free press, freedom of worship and assembly, and other fundamental rights may not be submitted to vote; they depend on the outcome of no elections."

Winners in the foundation's elementary school division are: Miss Marilyn Kudell, sixth grade teacher at El Rodeo School, Beverly Hills, first prize and $300; Miss Patricia Rohrs, kindergarten, Sycamore School, Claremont, $200; Mrs. Evelyn H. Stanley, first grade, Glen City School, Santa Paula, $100.

Secondary school division: Jess H. Hughton, 12th grade teacher Blair High School, Pasadena, $300; Paris B. Simmons, eighth grade, Ben Franklin School, Daly City, $200, and James W. Collins, 12th grade, Cordova High School, Rancho Cordova, $100.

Railways Ask for Rate Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's railways Friday asked jointly for a five per cent increase in coach and first-class passenger fares.

The application to the State Public Utilities Commission said the increase was "just and reasonable" and asked for an early hearing.

The increase was asked for all rail, motor and coordinated rail and bus operations.

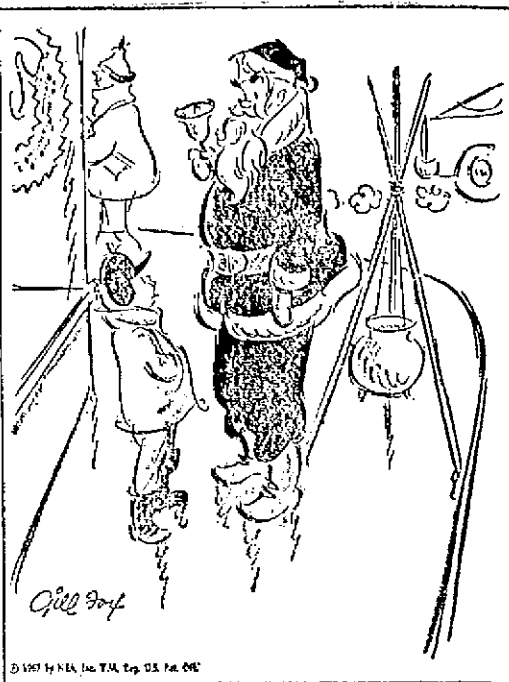

The railways making the application were the Santa Fe, its subsidiary, the Santa Fe Transportation Co., the Southern Pacific, the North-western Pacific, the Western Pacific and the Union Pacific.

A spokesman for the railroad lines said the increase requested would match one granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission which became effective Sept. 1, and that the total increase in revenue would run less than $100,000.

Jury Convicts Woman Slayer of Student

An attractive young Covina woman was convicted Friday of the second-degree murder of her brother-in-law.

A seven-man, five-woman Superior Court jury deliberated two days before reaching the verdict against Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Saidi-Tabatabai, 24.

The woman, mother of a 10-month-old son, was accused of fatally shooting Mehdi Saidi-Tabatabai, 20, last Nov. 15 in his apartment in West Covina.

The young nun, an Iranian exchange student, shared the apartment with his brother, Abdolhay, 31, the woman's estranged husband.

Mrs. Saidi-Tabatabai had been free on $5,000 bail but Judge Arthur L. Alarcon remanded her to custody following the verdict.

The judge said he felt the defendant "is a very dangerous person."

After the verdict was read, Judge Alarcon commented he felt the death of the exchange student was a "deliberate homicide and a cold-blooded killing."

Mrs. Saidi-Tabatabai faces a sentence of five years to life in prison. She will appear for sentencing before Judge Alarcon on Jan. 5.

Train Derails

MODEL, Colo. (AP)—Eighteen cars of a Santa Fe Railway freight train, including seven loaded with 750-pound bombs bound for Vietnam, derailed south of here, the railroad said Friday. There was no explosion and no injuries, railroad spokesmen said.

2 Yule Parades Tonight

By WALT MURRAY

A white Christmas may be no more than a dream for Southlanders, but they can enjoy a nautical Christmas tonight in Naples or San Pedro.

Festively decorated boats and floats will wind through Alamitos Bay and the canals of Naples starting about 6 tonight and Sunday night in the 22nd annual Parade of Lights.

In San Pedro, the 42,000-ton luxury liner S. S. Oriana will lead the fifth annual Christmas Afloat parade of lighted boats tonight only at 7 in the port's main channel.

Forty-one boats have been entered in the Naples parade, although some will travel only part of the route due to low bridges spanning the canals.

Bruce Russell, chairman of the sponsoring Naples Improvement Association, said police will block off narrow Naples drives and the best way to view the parade is to park in the Naples Plaza area and walk to the canals.

Staging area for the parade is between the Appian Way and Second Street bridges.

The boats — ranging in size from eight foot sabots to 35-foot cabin cruisers — will travel through Alamitos Bay, circle through the Rivo Alto Canal and disband on the bay between the Long Beach Yacht Club and the Davies Bridge.

Reigning over the nautical Yule parade will be the Contessa di Napoli, 18-year-old Wendy Kraft, a Long Beach City College coed.

She'll be accompanied by her court, Ellen Andrews, Sue Barry, Pam Lewis and Monica Coserza.

Riding other floats will be Karen McQuarrie, Miss Welcome to Long Beach; Debby Williams, Miss Port of Long Beach; and Mardel Nixon, California State College at Long Beach homecoming queen.

Saturday night's grand marshal will be State Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach. Grand marshalls Sunday night will be three founders of the parade, Sherell Muntz, Dr. Ed Perry and Melvin Hudson.

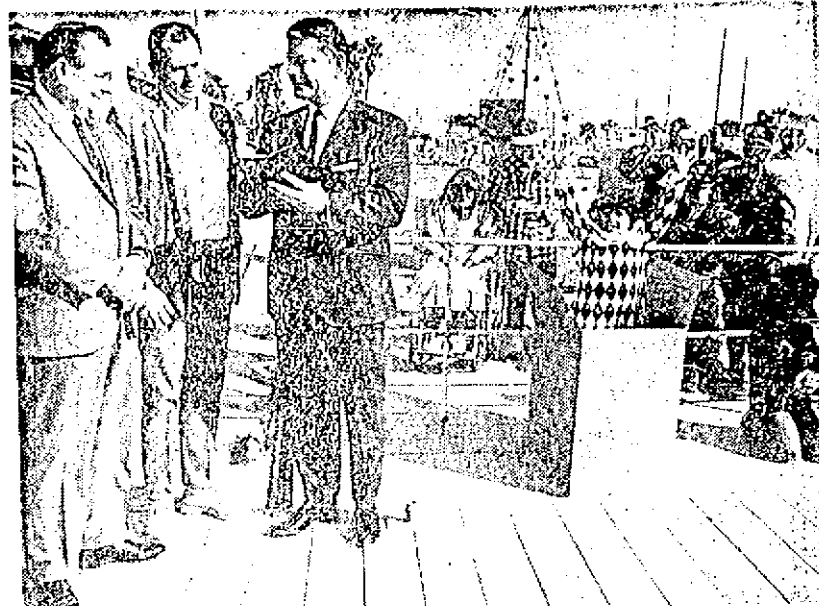

Four bands will provide music. Boats and floats include entries from four yacht clubs, the Cal-State Long Beach Sailing Association, and a 25-foot float for Naples Association.

In San Pedro, the majestic Oriana will join 60 other vessels in a mile-long parade, sponsored by the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce and the Port of Los Angeles.

The parade through the port's main channel starts from the east basin, near the Matson Terminal, and moves out past the San Pedro waterfront to Outer Harbor and back, ending under the Vincent Thomas Bridge.

Following the Christmas Afloat pageant will be a waterspray display by a Los Angeles city fireboat.

Grand marshal of the Christmas afloat pageant will be Eleanor Chambers, Los Angeles deputy mayor.

Antiwar Parade Slated Sunday

A controversial anti-Vietnam war parade scheduled to pass within a mile of the Dow Chemical Co. napalm-producing Torrance plant will be held Sunday as scheduled.

Representatives of the South Bay Vietnam Summer Committee Friday paid the required $500 fee and secured a permit for the parade and rally to be held from about 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Meanwhile, the chairman of a Long Beach Citizens for Vietnam committee, George Nelson, of 239 E. Spring St., announced plans for mass counterpicketing along the Torrance Boulevard parade route.

NELSON, who organized a major pro-Vietnam demonstration at the Long Beach Selective Service office in October, said he has at least 100 persons pledged to join his picketing Sunday, and he expects to gather at least 500.

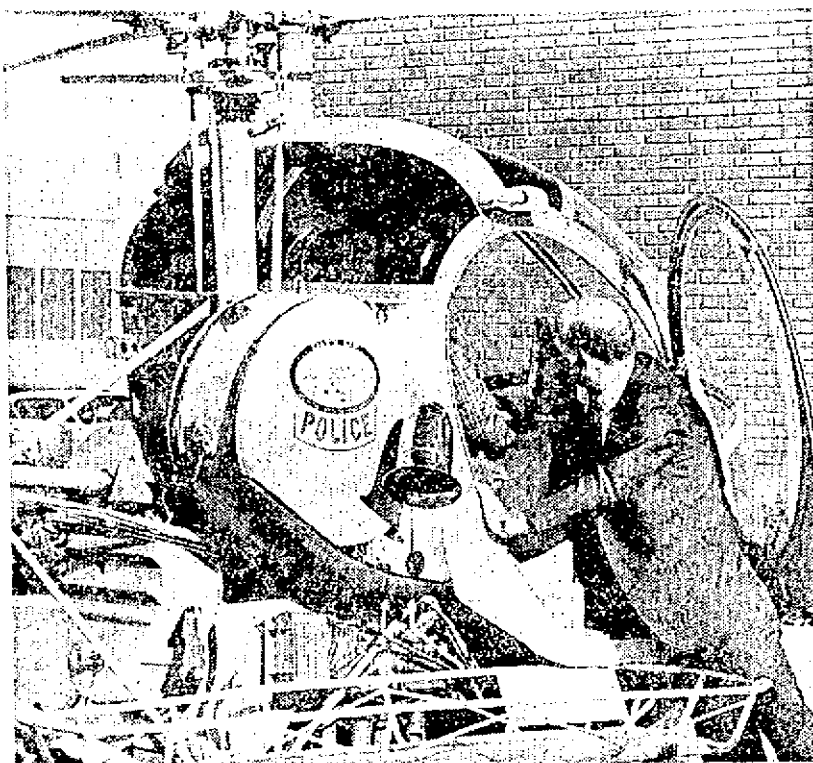

At Torrance city hall, Ralph Cramer and Jim Berland, representing the South Bay group, paid the fee required by the city license review board an hour before the noon deadline, and secured a permit which includes conditions under which an expected 6,000 demonstrators could gather.

The permit requires the parade to form on Cravens Avenue by El Prado Park, then move off no later than 10 o'clock. It must then travel west on Torrance Boulevard and arrive about 11 a.m. at the Civic Center where the rally is planned.

The permit requires the rally to end no later than 4 p.m.

Torrance police, in an attempt to prevent trouble, have made elaborate plans to halt any unannounced diversion to the Dow plant about two blocks north of the route.

The company, which manufactures at the plant all the napalm used for fire-bombing in the war, has been the target of many recent demonstrations.

Police Copter Test Slated in Torrance

Torrance police Friday took to the air.

They tested a small, speedy helicopter — already wearing the department insignia on its cabin and fuselage — to see if it's useable for fighting city crime.

Mayor Al Isen and Police Chief Walter R. Koenig took a whirl in the copter Friday, and more tests are scheduled today to test coordination of the helicopter with ground units.

MEANWHILE, in Cerritos, the city council approved spending $1,500 to keep Lakewood Sheriff's Sky Knight helicopter patrolling the skies through January.

The city must raise $9,000 to continue the Sky Knight service for the next six months.

The initial 18-month Sky Knight program was largely financed by federal funds.

Continuing the aerial crime prevention program in the six cities will cost about $73,000 for the first half of 1968.

Last month, Lakewood City Council voted to purchase the three Sky Knight helicopters now in use and continue staffing them with sheriff's personnel.

HAWAIIAN Gardens councilmen approved spending $2,250 to continue the service in their city for the next six months. Bellflower paid $17,424. Paramount, like Cerritos, approved a one-month extension to allow further study of the program.

L.B. Cold Wave? It Was a Gasser

Long Beach residents burned half again as much gas for heat during the cold spell as they normally do, the city gas department said Friday.

"The demand was great, but we had ample gas for our customers," said Edward C. Wright, an engineer for the department.

"Gas was diverted from industry to supply the increased demand," he explained.

Normal daily volume consumed in Long Beach is 100 million feet, with industry getting about half the supply, according to Wright.

"During emergencies, industry switches to other sources of heat and energy," Wright said.

Butterflies Predict Cold

By DICK EMERY

Maybe you can't predict the weather with butterflies, after all.

A big butterfly expert at the County Museum of Natural History said so, Friday night, as the wind blew chill and the butterflies swarmed by thousands over San Pedro's "Weather Tree."

"The butterflies are not predicting," Dr. Charles L. Hogue, the museum's curator of entomology, told inquirers. "They're responding to cold."

Even so, avid spectators were peering, Friday, into the foliage of the "Weather Tree," a 40-year-old, 50-foot-high pine which a gardener said is a Halapensis pine, in a grove of trees near the Cabrillo Beach parking lot.

The tree is full of Monarch butterflies, the brown-yellow-and-black butterflies famed for 3,000-mile annual migrations. They started arriving weeks ago, by the hundreds, and they're still arriving.

"True," Dr. Hogue admitted, "presence of the Monarchs in a tree so far south does indicate weather already colder than usual."

"The butterflies breed in warm periods in southern Canada and the northern United States, and when the weather cools in October and November they fly south.

Moscow Circus Hit by Anaheim Pickets

Anti-Communist pickets greeted the opening of the Moscow Circus at Anaheim Convention Center Friday night, but the demonstrators were restricted to an area half a block from the box office and entrance.

Police reported no disturbances.

However, officials at the Convention Center said three stink bombs were thrown during the first night performance. One broke up the Dovayko acrobatic team's act, momentarily blinding the performers. Two musicians performing in the circus band also had to leave with burning eyes.

Another bomb was hurled at the stage, but failed to cause any damage. A third bomb was detonated in the men's room during intermission.

One program spokesman acknowledged the huge Convention Center wasn't crowded.

"It isn't full," said Lou Rosen, of the Holiday on Ice firm, "but it isn't empty either."

"We've got a big advance sale for the show anyway," he added. Rosen declined to identify the less than enthusiastic reception for the circus with the picketing. "I didn't even see them," he said. "I was told they were out there walking around."

Nearly 30 Anaheim police officers were pressed into special service to handle the evening's activities, about normal strength for a large crowd at the sprawling center.

The pickets, less than the 100 predicted earlier by Dr. William Kott, Anaheim dentist and chairman of the Committee for Victory in Vietnam, marched around in the allotted area.

They plan to march each day the circus is presented through Dec. 25.

UP AND AT 'EM!

Hawks, Doves Row on Pigeons

By DON BRACKENBURY

In the war on pigeons, are you a hawk or a dove — or a chicken?

Members of the City Council's Ordinance Committee apparently are going to have to choose sides Monday.

The committee meets at 9:30 a.m. in City Hall, and a major item on the agenda is a proposed city program to control wild pigeons.

Several months ago, more than 200 persons who use facilities of Lincoln Park signed a petition to the City Council, asking it to curb the pigeon population.

THE PETITIONERS were particularly irate about a smaller segment of park visitors, those who feed the pigeons.

Councilmen were somewhat unenthusiastic about getting into the middle of a clash between pigeon lovers and pigeon haters, but asked the city manager's office for a report.

On Oct. 17, City Manager John R. Mansell recommended that the city institute "a formal trapping program on a citywide basis, and the enactment of an ordinance which prohibits the feeding of wild pigeons on both public and private property."

IT'S SUPPORT OF the recommendation, Mansell forwarded a report from Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer, that wild pigeons pose "a very real potential public-health hazard."

Dr. Litwack said the city had adopted "an excellent ordinance" in 1961 which regulated the maintenance of pigeons on private property, and said it had brought "substantial reduction" in complaints about private cages and lofts.

The control of the wild flocks, which he estimated total about 30,000 pigeons in Long Beach, continues to pose a "serious" public-health problem, Dr. Litwack said.

Lighting Contest Deadline

Deadline for entries in the 28th Long Beach Christmas Home Lighting Contest will be Monday.

Dick Van Der Laan, project chairman for the sponsoring Jaycees, said residents can enter by submitting their names, addresses and types of entry to the Christmas Lighting Contest, Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave.

Trophies will be awarded the entries judged best in seven categories. Outdoor categories are lighting, tree, display and novelty. Indoor categories, as seen through the front window, are tree, display and novelty.

Final judging will be held Wednesday, and winners will be announced Thursday.

Long Beach Vietnam Vote to Be Asked

Councilmen will be asked next Tuesday to submit to Long Beach voters a ballot measure calling for withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

A letter from the Long Beach Area Community for New Politics, 3046 E. Seventh St., asked councilmen to place the following proposition on the municipal ballot:

"The City of Long Beach informs the President and the Congress of the United States that the city favors an unconditional halt to all bombing, an immediate cease-fire and the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam, so that the Vietnamese people can chart their own future."

The letter was signed by Saul Stolzberg, area coordinator for the New Politics organization.

"The crisis in American society compels us to come before our elected city officials to allow the people of the City of Long Beach the democratic right to vote on the war," Stolzberg wrote.

UNLESS SOMEONE HELPS

Sally, Robb to Face A Grim Christmas

Not only will Sally and Robb be without a mother for the first Christmas this year, but the holiday also may be an empty one for them for another reason: Santa Claus might pass them by.

The grandaunt with whom they live is unable to provide Christmas gifts for the little girl and her little brother whose mother died last May, because her means are limited.

Their grandmother, who used to afford them security and stability, is now ill in the hospital.

It appears Christmas will be very grim for the two youngsters; that is, unless somebody or some organization comes to their aid.

Volunteers of America is making an all-out effort to encourage Long Beach to help the children.

In the agency's files for the Community Christmas Welfare program, the tots' family is registered as Case No. 570.

If you would like to contribute toys or other gifts to brighten Christmas for Sally and Robb, contact the Volunteers of America at their headquarters at 1185 E. 15th St.

Lakewood Pupils Write GI 'Pals'

Servicemen whose names have been running in the Independent, Press-Telegram during the past few weeks will receive at least one card or letter for Christmas.

Because pupils at Esther Lindstrom School, Lakewood, after compiling a list of the names from the newspaper, have started a project to send a card or letter to the servicemen.

Each pupil has "adopted" a name, and dropped a card or letter into a Santa's Mailbox placed in each classroom.

More than 350 cards and letters have been mailed, and some students doubled up on names to make up for those youngsters in the lower grades who are unable to write.

Principal, Jack Reynolds, said last year many of the pupils on their own, mailed cards at Christmas time.

He said last summer, several of the youngsters and their families received personal visits from some of the servicemen who had returned, and were told how much their cards and letters meant. This prompted the idea of a schoolwide project this year.

STOP FIRE

Burning Vine Peril to Santa

Santa Claus can now make his descent down the chimney without fear he'll get a thorn in his crimson pants—at least in the Torrance area, thanks to the city's fire department.

Torrance firemen, called to extinguish a small chimney fire at 328 Via Linda Vista, discovered the blaze had started in a thorny tropical climbing vine called bougainvillea.

Battalion Fire Chief Charles Reintma sent out a prompt warning to residents, cautioning them the reddish purple vine they find so decorative on chimneys is a fire hazard which should be eliminated.

DOWN CAME the bougainvillea at Torrance addresses, firemen said.

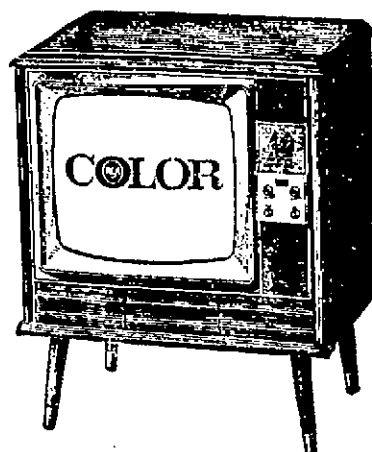

While the fire department's warning was to prevent fires in chimneys, it also benefits St. Nick—now, he won't have to worry about getting himself in a bind when he slides down chimneys to deliver toys for tots on Christmas morning.

Zip Codes Catch On Just in Time for Us

By JIM GOODRICH

Zip Coding has caught on in Long Beach—and at a most opportune time, according to Postmaster David Selcer.

The evidence: 95 per cent of all Christmas mail processed at the local post office has included the Zip Code, required as part of the complete mailing address.

Postmaster Selcer appealed to patrons to use the Zip Code for addressing mail throughout the United States and APO and FPO numbers for servicemen overseas.

"Our task has been eased by the response from people," Selcer said.

"Zip Coding will help us process the great volume of Christmas mail without unnecessary delay," he added.

The Post Office expects to handle 55 million pieces of Christmas mail this season.

Last year, more than 8 million pieces of mail were delayed because of insufficient addresses.

Patrons were cautioned recently to include Zip Codes on mail or expect late delivery.

Those who sought Zip Code information were able to get what they wanted from five fulltime employees hired by the Post Office just to give out the numbers over the telephone.

"Christmas mail is going through without a hitch," he reports.

Yorty's Olives Snafued

The gift-bearing operators of the Greek curise ship MTS Jason, due to arrive in the Port of Los Angeles today, have a present — "symbol of peace and brotherhood" — for Mayor Samuel W. Yorty, which he can not accept.

The gift, a six-foot olive tree, reportedly taken from the fields of Attica, was scheduled to be presented to the mayor on board during a noontime ceremony.

However, the U.S. Department of Agriculture quarantine officers say the tree is one of the species which cannot be shipped into this country.

THE TREE is a gift from the mayor and citizens of the city of Piraeus, home port of the Jason.

In return, the City of Los Angeles plans to place a California orange tree on board at the end of the season.

Again however the cautious Department of Agriculture says this cannot be done either.

A department spokesman said the federal agency was not consulted about the legality of the exchange of trees before the plan was announced.

"But the idea is certainly a friendly one," the department said.

JASON WILL begin a winter in the Pacific with cruises from Los Angeles and San Diego to popular resort cities of Mexico and South America.

The vessel was the second cruise ship to start cruises this week from the Port of Los Angeles. The Princess Italia, an all new, $20-million cruise ship arrived on Thursday and will sail tonight on the first of 15-two week cruises to Mexican resort towns.

Rich Christmas Musical Fare Offered

With Christmas just a little more than a week away, the joyous story of Bethlehem will be told Sunday in many Long Beach area churches through centuries-old choral works, cantatas, and original presentations.

Choirs of all age groupings will be heard, but young people and children will play a traditionally large role in the programs marking the start of the final week of the Advent season. Here are some of the outstanding musical events received by deadline time.

An imaginative program entitled "Christmas Fantasy" will involve 98 young people of Parkcrest Church of Christ, at 5950 Parkcrest Ave., starting at 7 p.m. Featured will be the church's outstanding 48-voice Chancel Choristers Youth Choir, with orchestra, a group in great demand. It has given at least one concert a month in the past 18 months for some other Southland church, hospital or other group. Director is Mrs. Patricia L. Dennis-toun, with Mrs. Helen Beard as accompanist.

THIS CHOIR was selected to bring the music at Camp Pendleton's Battalion

Day, and received this written tribute from Major Ryan: "Long will our chapel be filled with music in the memories of those who attended. I can best sum up by repeating a statement made by one of our Marines. 'I haven't heard singing like that since I left home.'"

The entire Parkcrest sanctuary will be decorated as a Winter Wonderland, and, explains Mrs. Dennis-toun, the program includes some secular Christmas music because "the beauty of giving gifts, the traditions of White Christmas, sleigh rides, snowmen, bells, Santa and the music to go with it are part of Christmas, and are because of the birth of Christ."

The Nativity Scene will be portrayed as part of a dramatic skit involving questions asked in a modern family.

AN UNUSUAL service of Advent music will be offered at 7:30 p.m. in All Saints Episcopal Church, Termino Avenue and Colorado Street. The choir under direction of organist Michael W. Secour will be augmented by an orchestra of students from the School of Music at Cal State —

'HOLIDAY' YOUTH MUSICAL TONITE

"Holiday in Harmony," a 90-minute Christmas musical will be presented tonight at 7:30 by Long Beach Youth for Christ in First Brethren Gymnasium, 3601 Linden Ave. Featured will be guests Truitt Ford, tenor, and Gloria Jean Smith, lyric soprano; Ron Compton, YFC national talent winner on the trumpet; the YFC Campus Chorale and several topnotch teen musicians. Free tickets may be obtained at the door.

Long Beach, directed by Stephen Pearson. Blending of contemporary and traditional music will be interspersed with lessons from the Bible and carols. Orchestral numbers will be Pastoral Symphony from Handel's Messiah and Psalm, by Alan Hovhannes. In addition to its three numbers, the choir will join forces with the orchestra in "And the Glory of the Oord" from the Messiah.

The soaring strains of The Messiah will be heard at 7:30 p.m. in Lakewood First Presbyterian, 3055 Studebaker Road, with the Sanctuary Choir and Chamber Orchestra conducted by Mrs. James Lobbett.

Members of the Children's, Youth and Layfield Bell choirs will present the popular annual program of Christmas Vesper music at 4 p.m. in First Methodist, Pacific Avenue and Fifth Street. Children in the Carol and Crusader choirs, directed by Mrs. Thomas Binckes, will offer a cantata with special narration by Victor Gumma on "Silent Night."

THE CHRISTMAS cantata "Tidings of Comfort and Joy" by Walter Porter will be given at 8 p.m. in Westminster Community Presbyterian, 2474 Pacific Ave., under direction of Charles Clay.

University Baptist, 3434 Chatwin Ave., will present the "Night of Miracles" cantata by John W. Peterson at 7 p.m.

In a little lend-lease, men and boys of St. Luke's Episcopal's famed Choristers will join in the 12th annual performance of the Advent and Christmas portions of The Messiah in old St. Paul's Cathedral in downtown Los Angeles at 5 p.m.

Youngsters of many churches will start their rounds of caroling Monday night.

DECK THE TREE WITH CHRISMONS

Mrs. James Reed, who undertook the project, and Rev. James R. Deemer, pastor, put finishing touches on tree at First United Presbyterian Church, 600 E. Fifth St., which features "chrismons" instead of the usual tinsel, lights and colored balls. It comes from the words Christ-Monograms, and each item is symbolic of the meaning of Christmas. The 100 decorations, hand made in hundreds of hours of work, are done in white for purity and gold for royalty, use styro-foam, beads, and other materials. Early Christians used similar symbols to identify themselves to one another and to beautify their surroundings. The church invites the public to view the tree from Monday through Friday this week, 7 to 9 p.m.

CUT MEETINGS, SAVE MILLIONS, SAYS KENNEDY

One denomination alone could save $9 million every four years just by eliminating all sorts of meetings, asserts a bishop. "More than half of the money we spend on meetings is wasted," Methodist Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy of Southern California is convinced.

And, he points out, if church leaders and pastors did not spend so much time traveling and attending meetings, they would have much more time "to cultivate the vineyard where they live."

Writing in the Christian Advocate, Bishop Kennedy suggests that much of what is done in national, regional and district gatherings could be accomplished by letter or telephone.

"If you can think of any easier way to pick up $9 million than just to have none of these meetings in the next quadrennium, wire me," Bishop Kennedy suggests.

Superb Editions of Book of Books for Ideal Gift

By LOUIS CASSELS UPI Religion Writer

One way to keep Christ in Christmas is to add one or more good religious books to your shopping list. If you can't think of anyone to give them to, you can always read them yourself.

Beware, however, of books which publishers and bookstores promote as "suitable for Christmas giving." Most of them are meant to be thumbed through and displayed on the coffee table—not read. They often are unconsciously expensive.

You'll get a lot more for your money—and your gift will be far more appropriate to the season—if you choose books that can really feed a person's spiritual hunger, and lead to new insights about the human condition.

The ideal book for Christmas giving is the Bible. This year, there are two new versions of the Scriptures which can be highly recommended.

One is the Today's English Version (TEV) of the New Testament, produced by the American Bible Society. You can buy it in paperback from American Bible Society branch offices, and at many local churches, for the unbelievably low price of 35 cents a copy (three for a dollar). It's called "Good News for Modern Man."

The TEV translation of the New Testament also is available in a flexible vinyl cover (American Bible Society, $1) and in a hardcover edition (MacMillan, $3.95). The latter should be available through regular trade bookstores.

This is perhaps the most readable of all modern translations of the Bible, and it has broken all publishing records by selling more than 8 million copies in its first year.

If you want to pay more, the famous Jerusalem Bible, produced by French scholars, is now available in a handsome English edition published by Doubleday. The entire Bible costs $16.95, or you can buy the New Testament portion for $5.95.

Now new, but still one of the finest editions in existence, is the Oxford Annotated Bible, for $7.95.

As a gift to ministers or Sunday School teachers, you might consider Zondervan's "The New Testament from 26 Translations," an edition which gives alternate readings for each verse. It's priced at $12.50.

Moving from Bibles to other religious books, my number one recommendation for Protestants would be "Affirmations of God and Man" (Association Press, $4.95). This is a treasury of excerpts from the writings of scientists, philosophers, poets, theologians, and mystics of all ages, edited by the distinguished author and critic Edmund Fuller. It is not a book to be read through at a sitting, but should be taken in daily five-minute nibbles, as food for thought and meditation.

For Catholics, the book of the season is the American edition of the famous new Dutch Catechism, published by Herder &

Herder for $6 under the title: "A New Catechism—Catholic Faith for Adults."

There has been controversy about a relatively few portions of this book, and Rome is now scrutinizing them carefully for possible revision, but most American scholars who've read it seem to agree with the verdict of Father Bernard Cook, chairman of the theology department at Marquette University, who calls it "an excellent presentation of the more up-to-date understanding of Catholic teaching."

For Catholics, the book of the season is the American edition of the famous new Dutch Catechism, published by Herder &

CONFIDENT LIVING

What Do You Want From Life?

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Ever ask yourself what you want from life? Do you really know? Could you state it in one sentence? Or even in a paragraph?

Many people go through life never knowing what they want. So they drift without direction. It is a strangely aimless way to live. And maybe sad, too, for if you don't know what you want you sure won't get it.

But if you do know what you want, you can help attain it by using creative principles such as the I.P.D. principle: Image, Prayer and Development.

It is a metaphysical law that if you keep in mind a sharp clear-cut image of something desired, and hold that mind-picture tenaciously until it not only dominates your conscious thinking but also permeates the unconscious mind — then the forces operating within you and in the world will conspire to produce the desire into reality.

But you can image a wrong or inadvisable objective. The thing you want, or think you want, can be something that could bring misfortune instead of happiness. For this reason a person should carefully examine his image of what he wants to be or do.

THEN PRAYER enters the picture. Is what you want a right thing? Is it wise? Or good? If you have any doubt as to its being right and wise and good, then re-think it and re-image it until you are satisfied that your goal checks with basic rightness. This is very important. If your goal is not right it is wrong, and nothing wrong ever turns out right.

From there on it is a matter of disciplined thinking, working and persevering — all of which will develop in real life the image goal.

Take for example the great entertainer Phyllis Diller. Several weeks ago someone showed me a clipping of an interview with Miss Diller during which she said she knew from personal experience the importance of having clearly imaged goals. She acknowledged a debt to author Claude Bristol for having made her realize the power of a mental image. She had "tried Dr. Peale's writings," but soon encountered the word "God" and that threw her off. It seems she had been reared in a family where too much religion was crammed into her and she got fed up with it.

Lots of people unfortunately have been given a negative idea of religion, and so they turn away from it as nothing but a dreary series of "thou shalt not's." But others see and practice the joyous and creative principles of faith so that their lives and the lives of all they contact are filled with creative positive values.

Well, anyway, I remember thinking that I should like to meet Miss Diller. Just six days later I did — in Los Angeles where we were guests on the same live television program.

Phyllis is a born comedian — very funny and charming. We had a great time on that TV show. After tossing a few amenities back and forth I said, "Phyllis, I've been wanting to meet you . . ." and I told her about that clipping.

"So naturally you did meet me," she said. "You imaged meeting me."

"The image sure worked fast," I remarked. "Now I want to talk with you about not going for spiritual techniques in living." On camera, this was. But at once she replied, "Oh, you don't need to."

SHE WENT ON to say that she had "returned to faith" and so now to the power of the mental image was added the even greater power of spiritual motivation. She captivated all of us by her enthusiastic belief that a strong mental image held firmly in mind can work wonders when supported by faith and hard work. It certainly worked out fantastically in her case. She is a demonstration of the I.P.D. principle in action.

What do you want from life? What do you want to be? Get it clearly imaged — not a fuzzy "I don't know exactly" idea. Make the image specific, well defined. They pray about it and if necessary modify it to be sure it is a right objective. Then hold the image strongly in mind even when discouraged. Go after it with everything you've got.

Error will drop out of your thinking and be replaced by positive, creative thought. Failure tendencies will be reduced. Bungling will diminish. Resistances and roadblocks will be removed one by one. Powers that you never realized within you will spring into action. Increasingly you will be what you really want from life.

Creche Scene

Mr. and Mrs. John Wolfson, of Palos Verdes Estates, have created a Christmas creche scene, of nearly life-size figures, which is being displayed in the library-museum of the Wayfarers' Chapel during the holiday season.

DR. BURCHAM

TV Spotlight for Long Beach Pastor, Church

Dr. Hugh David Burcham, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, will be the featured preacher Sunday, 10 a.m. on KNBC's (Channel 4) "My Favorite Sermon."

Extensive films of the new church at Atlantic and Third, and its activities, will be used as background in the program, which is sponsored by the Southern California Council of Churches.

A Long Beach native, Dr. Burcham entered the Naval Reserve on active duty in 1942, and since the end of World War II has remained in the Navy Reserve as a chaplain, holding the rank of captain.

He graduated UCLA with honors, received the Alumni Fellowship upon graduation from San Francisco Theological Seminary, the S.T.M. Degree cum laude from Union Theological Seminary, and doctor of divinity degree from Occidental.

He was organizing pastor at La Canada Presbyterian, and pastor of First Presbyterian of Oakland before returning to Long Beach in 1964. He was moderator of the San Francisco Presbytery, has held leading roles on national commissions, and is currently chairman of the board of managers, Downtown Long Beach YMCA.

Dr. and Mrs. Burcham (Esther Mae) are parents of Mrs. Cathy Hagen, Mary, David and Donald Burcham.

Concern on Trial

Treason trials by the Republic of South Africa have elicited "many expressions of concern" from members of the World Council of Churches. On trial are 35 Ovambo tribesmen from South-West Africa, most of whom are reported to be members of the Evangelical Lutheran Ovambokavango Church or the Evangelical Lutheran Church in South-West Africa.

Rejoinder by Dr. Booth to Attack on Sermon 'Moral Case for Arabs'

(With this rejoinder by Dr. John Nicholls Booth of The Unitarian Church to the attack by Rabbi Yosef Miller of Temple Beth Shalom against his sermon "The Moral Case for the Arabs," we conclude the discussion on these pages, and hope it can be continued on a public forum level in the best American tradition.)

Religion Editor:

May I please offer a documented reply to some claims of Rabbi Yosef Miller in the 1-PT for Dec. 2?

He states that the territory of Israel was not "wrenched from the Arabs," alleging that "the land on which the state was founded was bought and paid for . . ."

In contradiction, the impartial 1951 report of the Palestine Conciliation Commission of the U.N. estimated that more than 80 per cent of Israel's total area and more than two thirds of Israel's cultivable land belonged to those Arab refugees who fled during the 1948 war. One third of Israel's Jewish population (1951) was living on absentee property and nearly one third of the new immigrants were settled in urban areas abandoned by fleeing Arabs.

The rabbi maintains that "in 1948, the Arabs fled from Israel in spite of pleas by their Jewish neighbors for them to remain." Why did they flee? Massive documentation is available that searing memories of the long record of terrorism by the notorious Jewish Irgun and Stern gangs, the massacre of 250 Arab men, women and children at Deir Yassin, urging of leaders, struck such fear into their hearts that they panicked.

L.T. GEN. John B. Glubb, an eye witness, wrote in the Foreign Affairs Quarterly, July, 1954: "Both before and after the end of the 'Mandate the Israelis seized every opportunity to get rid of the Arabs still living in the area allotted to them . . ."

Astonishingly, Rabbi Miller states: "The Arabs have attacked their Jewish neighbors three times in open warfare . . . in 1948, 1956 and 1957." Without debating the "timing" of which trigger-happy armies struck first in 1948 or 1967, it is an incredible distortion to hear the tri-pronged 1956 invasion of Egypt by Israel-France-Britain termed an attack by Arabs on Jews!

The Rabbi continues to rewrite history: "Arabs let their own brothers not in refuge camps . . . None of the Arab countries have of forced even taken shelter to their brothers." The majority of the refugees in tiny Lebanon have built new lives for themselves. Stricken Jordan has offered citizenship to all; land to as many as possible. Egypt's narrow Nile Valley is over-jammed, unable to absorb more. Iraq has assumed full governmental responsibility for its refugees. Through the U.N., the impoverished Arab nations give to Arab relief as limited resources permit.

When the Jewish community evades its moral and financial responsibility toward the Arab refugees by blaming the Arab nations for not assuming it, it misrepresents the facts and reveals a disturbing moral insensitivity. Despite the deprivations of a million refugees on her borders, bowed under poverty, homesick for their own land, Israel has ignored repeated U.N. resolutions asking repatriation or compensation.

HISTORY repeats itself in Jerusalem, 1967. More than 2,000 Arabs in the Old City were given a three-hour ultimatum to clear out. Homes and shops were then bulldozed to provide space before the Wailing Wall and a road leading to it. The Israelis made no attempt to provide alternate lodging or provide compensation. These Arabs are added to the refugees. Passionate righteous indignation has led Arab leaders into distastefully shrill and bellicose shouts. Let us rise above our gut reactions to this and build the future on righteousness, not on our own emotionalism. Only then will Americans confront the issues honestly and act with justice toward Arab and Jew alike. FROM THE PULPIT

THE SYMBOL OF THE CHRISTMAS TREE
Beneath the origin of the Christmas tree is shrouded in obscurity, there is a certain symbolism in it which gives it a definite place in the Christian home, and in the festivities of the Christmas season. At every Christmas time the Christmas tree beautifully symbolizes Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior in His respect. It points upward and because God gave John 3:16, the first Christmas gift we ever had was hung on a tree, Cross of Calvary. John 1:29, who His own self bore our sins in His own body on the tree.

It is evergreen, reminding us of Everlasting Life, and this is the message Christ came to bring to a dying world. The message of Life Eternal to all who believe in Him. John 1:3.

It is the light of the world. "I am the light of the world." The colored lights on the tree symbolize most beautifully the Lord Jesus Christ who is the Light of the World. The Star at the apex reminds of the Star of Bethlehem. The red holly berries symbolize the blood that was shed for us. The white decorations speak of His purity and sinlessness. Blue speaks of His heavenly origin. Green speaks of Everlasting Life. Gold of His eternal glory. The candles of His Kingdom. So as you sit this Christmas season in the warm glow of the Christmas tree in your home, think of these things.

Next it satisfies and cheers. How often do we turn out all the lights and just sit with the tree alone? How cheerful and comforting! Reminding us again of the one who is Altogether Loving, the Rose of Sharon, the Lily of the Valley and the Bright and Morning Star.

Lastly, it was cut down for us. It was not left to grow into ever increasing heights that it might become one of the spires in the forest, but only it was made a sacrifice for us that it might minister to our happiness. Our Lord was sacrificed for us at the age of 33.

Thus a Christmas tree can be more than an ornament in our homes. The flame of its lights, the evergreen of its life everlasting, the candles of its Kingdom, the colored lights of its symbolism and Christmas takes on added joy. The mute witness from the forest reminds us "That unto you is born this day in the City of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord."

Lay Dissidents, Twain, Rap on 'Up With People'

By LES RODNEY

The homespun national moderator of the United Presbyterian Church, Dr. Eugene Smathers, of Big Lick, Tenn., says the once-controversial Confession of 1967 has been well received across the country in its first year alongside the other historic documents which articulate the Presbyterians' faith.

But, he adds, there has been some loss of some members who felt they couldn't live with anything going beyond the Westminster Confession, especially a confession calling the church to witness for social concerns here and now.

And the lay committee of Presbyterians headed by Eastern oilman J. Howard Pew is still very much alive — and kicking.

"They've caused us problems," Dr. Smathers readily concedes. "They'll probably continue to. They have tremendous financial resources."

He said he met Pew this summer, and was highly impressed by the Sun Oil executive and publisher. "He is a wonderful man. But he has these certain ideas, and lots of money to propagandize them."

He characterized the dissidents as "fundamentalists in their approach to the Bible — and people who believe that individual Christians, not the church as a body, should concern themselves with the problems of the world."

Dr. Smathers himself is deeply committed to the proposition that "the church is in the world and must be involved with the world, it is basic to the faith." His own church, which he built in Big Licks in the 1930s, the town's first church edifice, went on to create a "house of health" for local kids in the poverty-stricken mountain area, pioneered cooperative self-help projects for local farmers, and interracial work projects.

Appalachia's dominant church, the Southern Baptists, have started moving into the area of social concerns, he reports, "and they're starting to run into some of the same problems from some of their people about 'social action.'"

Dr. Smathers' upset election last May (by floor nomination over the "establishment" candidate), hasn't changed him. He's still Gene to everyone who knows him at all, still salty and down-to-earth. The Confession of 1967, he explained to reporters, "tells us to hear what the Bible says, and not worry so much about exactly how we got it."

THE FIRST Christian Evangel, weekly publication, prints one of Mark Twain's pungent comments on the human animal: "In all matters of opinion, our adversaries are insane." Twain wouldn't be likely to change his mind on that if he could hear some of today's arguments.

Another of his beauties which comes to mind, give or take a word, I care not what a man's race, religion, creed or social status is. It is enough for me that he is a human being. Worse can he said of nobody."

IN A RESOLUTION which will cause some raised eyebrows at Schick Razor Co., who are one of the backers of the sprightly musical "Up With People," the small fundamentalist American Council of Christian Churches says: "... we believe that 'Up With People' is neither Christian nor truly patriotic ... its teachings are heretical theologically and dangerous politically and morally." Reason for the criticism is apparently that the "Up With People" show has been identified with the Moral Rearmament movement, which, says the Carl McIntire group, errs because of an "emphasis on humanistic principles."

Coincidentally, in the current issue of Christianity Today, the country's most influential conservative evangelical magazine, among a humorous listing of proposed Christmas presents is this one: "Carl McIntire ... a ham radio set for dispensing the baloney he includes in his attacks on non-ACCC Christians."

Some other suggested gifts by the magazine's humorist were: "William Sloane Coffin Jr., Yale chaplain, peace advocate — An Uncle Sam Wants You poster and a personal letter of greetings from J. Edgar Hoover to J. Edgar Hoover." "Father James Kavanaugh — The new book 'The Celibate Condition and Sex, to burn in the fireplace of his honeymoon bungalow.'" "Joe Pyne — A pinch of salt for the biggest bag of religious nuts ever fed to the public."

A LUTHERAN layman who attended the Roman Catholic Third World Congress for the Lay Apostolate in October says most of the Protestant and Orthodox observers were "astounded at the apparent depth of renewal which is underway."

Charles Lutz, director of the Center for Urban Encounter in St. Paul, Minn., was an observer-consultant for the Lutheran World Federation, and writes his impressions in the December issue of Lutheran Forum.

On the negative side, there is still a tendency to speak of "the Church" as separate from the laity, he says, and "there's the danger (in the new emphasis on lay participation) of producing merely clericalized laymen."

The observer listed four implications of the congress for the particular attention of non-Catholic Christians.

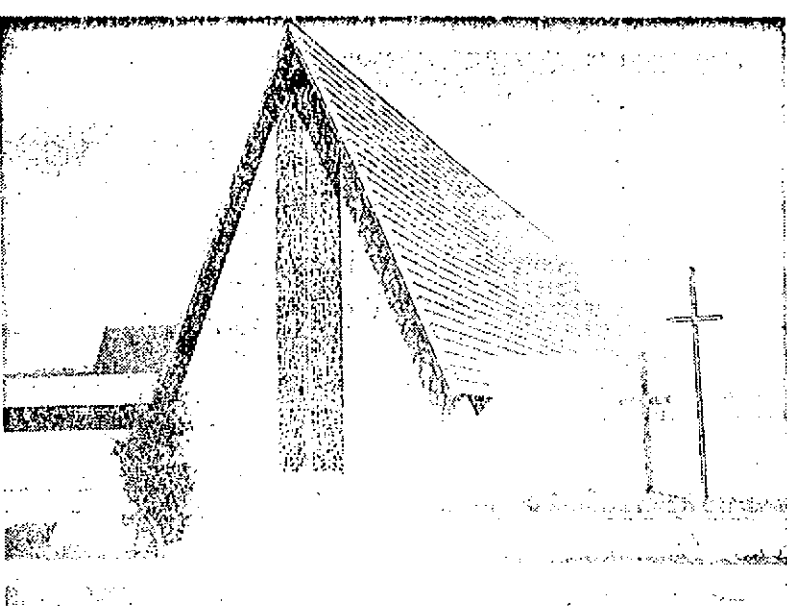

—Those elements in Catholicism which Protestants have found most disturbing are just as offensive or embarrassing to renewal-minded Catholics. The renewal process is "real and irreversible."

—Catholicism is asking the question, "How do we move forward without splitting the Church?" Fear of schism, Lutz believes, may explain the cautious pace of the hierarchy.

—Ecumenical dialogue "comes most naturally when you're discussing, not church unity, but the questions of human existence in today's world, or when you come together to work at a common task."

—The biggest question which the congress directs to non-Catholics is whether they will "realize that (their) churches also need renewal."

In some humility, the writer asks: "If you Roman Catholics in any measure are being aided by what has happened in the other wing of the Western Church family since 1957, will you now have patience with us in the renewal of our part of the household?"

WOODEN STABLE, DECEMBER BIRTH, NUMBER OF WISE MEN Christmas 'Facts' Which Aren't

United Press International

Many people take it to be "gospel truth" that Jesus Christ was born in a crude wooden stable on Dec. 25, 1 A.D., that he shortly thereafter received gifts from three Oriental kings named Kaspar, Melchior and Balthazar.

Actually, not one of these familiar details of the first Christmas comes from the New Testament. All are the products of pious imagination, and probably are contrary to historical fact.

Take the matter of that wooden stable. It has been depicted so often, in paintings and pageants, that it comes as a surprise to many to learn that the Bible says only that Mary, after giving birth to her son, "laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn."

Since a manger is a feed-trough, the clear implication of the passage is that Jesus was born in a place where livestock were usually kept. But in first century Bethlehem, cattle were not sheltered in the kind of wooden barn envisioned by generations of western artists. They were kept in caves, hollowed out of the soft limestone cliffs.

IF IT IS interesting in this connection to note that the tradition of the wooden stable is entirely unknown to Christians in the lands of the eastern Mediterranean, including Palestine itself. They have always taken for granted that Jesus was born in a grotto.

The assumption that Jesus was born in the year 1 A.D. is the basic premise of the Julian Calendar, and of its successor the Gregorian Calendar now generally used throughout the world. These calendars purport to date all events from the birth of Christ. History thus is divided into two eras — B.C. (Before Christ) and A.D. (Anno Domini, which is Latin for "the year of our Lord").

Unfortunately, the Roman monk Dionysius Exiguus, who made the calculations for the Julian Calendar in the 6th Century A.D., was not very good at arithmetic. He misplaced the year 1 by at least six years.

St. Matthew's Gospel clearly states that Jesus was born "in the days of Herod the King," and indicates that Herod was still alive, and slaughtering innocent babies, two years later. It is well established in historical records that Herod died in 4 B.C., so that Jesus must have been born about 6 B.C.

ST. LUKE connects the birth with a decree from Augustus Caesar requiring all residents of the Roman Empire to enroll for taxation. Historians have fixed the time of this census as somewhere between 9 B.C. and 6 B.C.

As for the date of Dec. 25, that was chosen by the church during the 4th Century A.D. as a fitting occasion to celebrate the "Christ Mass" — the liturgy commemorating the Savior's birthday. The choice seems to have been dictated not by any particular historical evidence or tradition concerning the actual date of Jesus' birth, but rather by a desire to Christianize a Roman revel which marked the winter solstice.

The Biblical evidence plainly indicates that Jesus was born during the late summer or fall. That is the time of year when Palestinian shepherds take their flocks into the field to graze at night. During this period, incidentally, the caves normally used for sheltering livestock are empty, and available for rent to travelers who find a "no vacancy" sign at the inn.

As for those "Three Kings of Orient," the noted Dutch Catholic scholar, Dr. H. W. Van der Vaart Smit, points out in his book,

"Born in Bethlehem," (Heli-con Press, Baltimore), that St. Matthew's gospel simply refers to "wise men from the east." It does not say there were three of them; that is a deduction later generations have made from the fact that the Gospel lists three kinds of gifts which they brought. So far as the scriptural record goes, there could have been two — or two dozen

AND, SAYS Prof. Smit, "there is not a wisp of evidence" to support the belief, which originated in the Middle Ages, that they were kings. On the contrary, it is fairly evident from the text that they were priest-astrologers, a type of scholar well-known in First Century Babylon.

As for the names Kaspar, Melchior and Balthazar, Prof. Smit says, "We owe this fiction to a European monastery."

"The monk who in the 9th Century created Kaspar, Melchior and Balthazar was not a wicked person," he says, "but a friendly, well-meaning man with a sense of humor." He thought the three "kings" should have names, so he supplied them.

And he also supplied another touch to the story which proved to have a prophetic significance. He gave one of the wise-men a black face, to show that Christ belongs to all races alike.

wise men.

Rabbi Guthman Returns for Homecoming

Rabbi Sidney Guthman will return to the pulpit of Temple Sinai, 2600 E. Seventh St., after a long absence, on Friday evening Dec. 22, to welcome the college students at the annual "Homecoming Sabbath."

Participating with Rabbi Guthman, Cantor Greenfield and the Temple Choir will be students from five colleges: California State College at Long Beach, UCLA, USC, Northwestern and Harvard. The president of the local Hillel Foundation will also participate.

A reception honoring the college students will follow, hosted by the Temple Sisterhood.

'QUEEN MARY' SKIPPER AT L.B. CHURCH Welcomed by Rev. Hall, St. Luke's Rector

Meeting the Captain

St. Luke's Episcopal Church last Sunday heard a distinguished visitor — Capt. J. Treasure Jones of the Queen Mary — read the Scripture lessons at 11 a.m. worship service.

According to British maritime tradition, the captain reads the Divine Service, using the rite of the Church of England. He was invited to do so at St. Luke's by the rector, Rev. Samuel Leslie Hall.

The captain, his wife and three of his officers were met at the ship by Senior Warden Howard Jackson and Mrs. Jackson, along with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Buffum, who escorted the visitors to the church at Seventh Street and Atlantic Avenue.

Captain Jones mentioned that his final reading of Divine Service aboard the Queen Mary on the previous Sunday had been a deeply emotional experience, and that he was pleased to have been asked to participate in the service at St. Luke's.

He responded very warmly to the greetings of the congregation outside of the church following the service, and signed many autographs for the Boy Christeners who crowded around him.

IT'S FINE WITH ME' Billie Jean Favors Pros

Combined News Services

Billie Jean King Friday voiced her approval of the British Lawn Tennis Assn.'s decision to abolish the distinction between amateur and professional tennis next year.

"It's fine with me, said Mrs. King, the Long Beach native and '67 Wimbledon Champion, who Friday defeated Helen Gourlay of Australia 6-0, 6-2 to advance to the women's singles finals of the Southland Australian Tennis Championships at Adelaide against Judy Tegart. "I am just happy to play at Wimbledon whether it is open or not, provided the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. supports open tennis."

The world's top woman tennis player added she would not care if she were barred from playing in Australia or if the Australian Lawn Tennis Assn. branded her as a professional. The ALTA is expected to bar its amateurs from appearing at the open tournaments in England.

"I think it's great the USTA decided to have a vote on this within our country," said Mrs. King. "I favor open tennis and would be happy to play if the club in the United States wants it."

"As soon as I get back home I will talk to Robert Kelleher, the president of the USTA, to see what is going on."

Graham Stilwell and Peter Curtis, both British players, on the other hand,

May Return to Platoon Football

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts: College football now has its best game in history, but there could be trouble ahead. Budget-minded administrators are girding for another battle to bring back restricted substitutions and outlay platoons.

It's the same old argument. Specialist units cost too much money, the educators say, but that's the stuff that has been filling up all those college arenas across the land.

The powerful Eastern group voted this week to bring back restrictions. Look for more to follow.

Sports Network, Inc. says it'll televise nine major tournaments on the pro golf tour this year. That's in addition to other TV golf including the U.S. Open and PGA championships.

Nat Fleischer's Ring Encyclopedia for 1968, a whooper with more than 800 pages, is coming off the presses. Among the questions it answers is, "What was the quickest kayo ever seen on U.S. television?" Mike DeJohn took out Charley Powell in 47 seconds at Syracuse on Nov. 6, 1958.

Wonder who picked up the tab for the commercials on that one?

Among the important statistics released prior to the Orange Bowl football game are the figures 37-25-35. They belong to the Orange Bowl queen, Patricia Taylor of Fairfax, Va., and the University of Miami.

Tennessee and Oklahoma, who'll play the game, have some mighty impressive statistics, too.

Game wardens in Minnesota have been having a tough time catching violators who scooted off in snowmobiles. So now the state conservation department has some new equipment—60 new snowmobiles to head 'em off at the pass.

TAB TOP ROCKETTE IN LAS NINAS Los Alamitos Brings Out the Girls Today

Some of the same two-year-old fillies who tried their luck in the recent Los Alamitos Futurity return to the track today for the $12,000 Las Ninas Purse.

The race, headed by Top Rockette, is the final stepping stone for the closing day $35,000 Kindergarten Purse on Dec. 23.

Top Rockette, who finished only a neck behind speedy Laico Bird in the $135,000 Futurity on Dec. 9, should be favored for her performances thus far this meeting.

Her only two starts have found her second to Laico Bird, the world's richest quarter horse.

Top Rockette holds the Bay Meadows track record for her age group for 350 yards with a 17.8 clocking. The Las Ninas will be run over the same distance, and leading jockey Charlie Smith has drawn the mount.

Pineda 4th Jockey to Bag 400 in Year

Combined News Services

Alvaro Pineda, a 22-year-old Mexican, won his 400th race of the year Friday, then raised the figure to 404 with a consecutive triple in the final three at Bay Meadows.

He is the fourth jockey in history to ride 400 winners in one year. But he trails Jorge Velasquez, who has virtually clinched this year's honors with 420, including three winners at Tropical in Florida Friday.

Pineda won the third with Ventura, paying $5.20, the seventh on Senor Beito, $7.80 eighth, Miss Hemp, $7 and ninth Surrey Land, $7.60.

Bill Shoemaker, who holds the record, won 485 races in 1953 and Bill Harlock won 417 in 1955.

Top-weighted Don B., winner of six of ten lifetime starts, looms as the favorite for today's $60,000-added Bay Meadows Juvenile Championship which brings together some of the nation's top jockeys and two year olds.

Rated 5-2 in the morning line and spotting his 12 opponents seven pounds each under the allowance conditions, Don B. will be ridden by Don Pierce. The fresh-

L.B. Rugby Club Plays Twin Bill

The Long Beach Rugby Club attempts to even its record at 1-1 this afternoon with a doubleheader at UC Irvine.

The Long Beach Reds first team, will open the program at 1 p.m. against the Old Mission Beach Athletic Club. At 3 p.m., the Long Beach Black second team meets UC Irvine.

The Rugger's first home contest is Saturday, Dec. 30 against the L.A. Rugby Club at DeMille Junior High in Long Beach.

Anyone interested in playing for any of the club's three teams is welcome to come out to practice every Tuesday evening at Wilson High from 7:30 to 9:30.

Schedule Roller Skate Exhibition

Patricia Ann Kendall, former United States roller figure skating champion, will give an exhibition each afternoon Saturday through Dec. 24 at the Starlite Roller rink, 3315 E. South St.

Miss Kendall, a movie choreographer, and coach of five national roller skating champions, also will skate with Santa Claus.

Rockette should come from Lady Lee Rocket, fourth in the recent Futurity, but saddled with the No. 1 post position for this outing.

Rest of the field includes Go Dorussa Go, a consistent winner this fall, Robin Ann Donlan, Monterey Gypsy and Sweet Pleasure.

Co-featured with the Las Ninas is the $8,000 Go Man Go Purse, going off as the seventh race.

Heading the list for the 400-yard event is Duplicate Copy, an offspring of the

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): How you handle other persons is of utmost importance today. You tend to let on you expect you to solve dilemmas. Do everything you can short of giving away your shirt.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Close loopholes. Time to make decision and follow through. A burden which you have carried could be lifted. Favorable day if you are versatile, willing to take action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't waste money. Tomorrow is to break wide. Wise course is to learn how gems are moved before looking for them. Careless is a great enemy today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cycle high. Some of your fears, doubts are based on irrational basis. Knowledge, spiritual reinforcement raises your own luck. Save money details, necessities. See bigger picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Fine for visiting those confined to home, hospital. Be considerate, kind. Help others to laugh. Show that there is a lighter side to your nature. Key is flexibility.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You can work out system of obtaining basic desires. Takes some self-discipline. You are very clearly. But you hesitate concerning initial steps. Take them. Be confident.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may feel you are close to edge. But crisis is not near. Consult individual you respect. You are not to find more allies than you imagine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Greater freedom today to discuss of family differences. You can back up your assertions with illustrations, examples. Gain spiritual insight. Be a good listener.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Freedom today to create needless dispute. You are close to edge. But crisis is not near. Consult individual you respect. You are not to find more allies than you imagine.

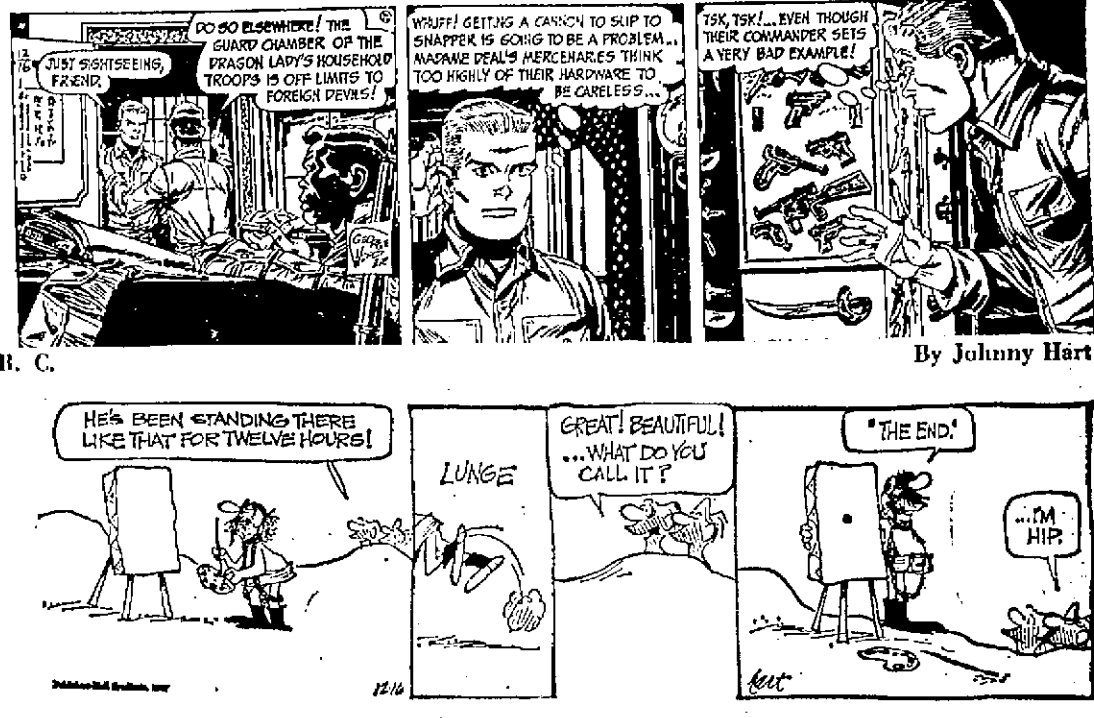

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some matters may be taken out of your hands. People close to you do surprising things. Accuse on promises to be retained or rejected. Stick to your word.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Contacts made today could pay off in future. Visitors may prove more fun than you imagine. Be hospitable. Be gracious. Know that you must give up some things, gain spiritual momentum. Be logical. (Feb. 19-March 20): Not so good for socializing. Depend upon something more than chance. Bank on claims with facts. Hold something in reserve. Special attention required by children.

PISCES (March 21-April 19): If today is your birthday, you attract assistance from afar. Could expect important endeavors. Also you may succeed in business connected with family obligations. Overcome tendency to procrastinate. Then you put into action forces which could ride you to the top.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Cancer, Leo. Special word to Aquarius. Outline work-recreation schedule. (Feb. 19-March 20): It's fun all more about yourself and Astrology, order "Your New Omarr's 365 Days of Astrology" from The Truth About Astrology, Send 50 cents to Omarr's Booklet, Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.
